THE TURKISH REBELLION.

THE SERVIAN LEGISLATURE TO DISCUSS THE REPLY TO PRINCE MILAN'S SPEECH IN SECRET SESSION—SERVIA'S NEUTRALITY IN DOUBT.

KRAGUJEVATZ, Sept. 20.—In compliance with the earnest desire of Prince Milan, the deliberations of the committee appointed to consider the address in reply to his speech will be submitted to the Chamber of Deputies in secret session. The debates in the Chamber will also, at the request of the Prince, be kept secret. It is not yet known what will be the tone of the address.

The Servian newspapers say that the Government has received a note from the Sublime Porte asking if Turkey may rely upon the maintenance of Servian neutrality. The Servian Government has not yet replied.

THE SECRET DEBATE BEGUN.

KRAGUJEVATZ, Sept. 20.—The debate in the Skouptschina on the address in reply to Prince Milan's speech has commenced. The sessions are held with closed doors.

A RUMORED INTENTION TO ASK THE GOVERNMENT TO DECLARE WAR.

KRAGUJEVATZ, Sept. 20.—It is rumored that the address of the Skouptschina does not mention the subject of war, but a special address to Prince Milan will be proposed, wherein the House will ask the Government to declare war. It is asserted the Government will leave the initiative to the nation.

A TURKISH BRIGADE DEFEATED—THE INSURRECTION SPREADING.

KRAGUJEVATZ, Sept. 20.—Advices from Bosnia report an engagement yesterday between 2,500 insurgents and a Turkish brigade, which resulted in the retreat of the Turks. The insurrection continues to spread.

THE REPLY TO PRINCE MILAN'S ADDRESS DESTITUTE OF WARLIKE DECLARATIONS.

KRAGUJEVATZ, Sept. 20.—In the Skouptschina to-day the address in reply to Prince Milan, as reported by the committee, was adopted by a vote of seventy-one yeas to forty-four nays. The document simply paraphrases the Prince's speech regarding the Turkish troubles, and contains no warlike declaration. It will be presented to the Prince to-morrow.

THE CONSULAR MEDIATION—THE TURKISH FORCES ON THE BOSNIAN AND SERVIAN FRONTIERS.

LONDON, Sept. 21—5:30 A. M.—A special dispatch from Berlin to the Times says the Porte is endeavoring to impress on the foreign powers the necessity of fixing a date for the termination of the Consular mediation in the insurgent camps.

The Turkish Government, in view of possible military requirements, has ordered the construction of the Sophia, Nisch, and Banjaluta Railway to be pushed with the utmost dispatch.

A telegram to the Times, from Vienna, expresses the opinion that now that the Turks have had time to occupy in force the Bosnian frontier the chances of renewing the insurrection in Bosnia have vanished.

The Daily News correspondent at Vienna telegraphs that the Turks now have a force of 18,000 men concentrated on the frontier of Servia.

GREAT BRITAIN.

REVIEW OF THE BREADSTUFFS MARKET—FURTHER DEPRESSION OF PRICES NOT PROBABLE—THE CONDITION OF THE CONTINENTAL MARKETS.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The Mark Lane Express this evening has the following review of the corn market for the week: The last gatherings of the harvest in the south of England have been well secured. The usual consequence has ensued, and a reduction in the price of wheat has been universal—say from one to two shillings per quarter. As our averages, however, are only one shilling and sixpence above those of last year there seems to be little room on a scanty and poor crop for further depression; and as money goes begging it may find profitable vent in the corn trade. The French claim that the growth has exceeded their wants by about three million quarters, but the fact that the French farmers are more reluctant than ourselves to give way, confirms the impression that the estimate is erroneous. The Paris market has been steady for flour and fine wheat, though it is about a shilling easier for inferior new. In the provinces there has been very little change. On the Continent generally there has been but little movement, the markets in some places in Germany being firmer and in others easier. In Holland prices have only declined a shilling, and in Belgium hardly that, but in Hungary, with better supplies, there has been a decline of two shillings per quarter, and the same is true of Denmark. Holders at Odessa still demand higher prices.

MORE GOLD FOR AMERICA.

LONDON, Sept. 21—6 A. M.—Fifteen thousand pounds sterling were withdrawn from the bank yesterday for America.

THE RICHMOND IRON-WORKS INSOLVENT.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The Richmond Iron-works at Stockton-upon-Tees, comprising twenty-six furnaces and rolling mills, and employing 300 hands, has suspended. The concern is insolvent.

THE REPORT ON THE ERIE RAILWAY.

THE CONDITION AND FINANCES OF THE ROAD—THE BONDHOLDERS ADVISED TO LET THE ROAD PAY ITS DEBTS—THE PRESIDENT AND RECEIVER INDORSED.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Sir Edward William Watkin, who has just returned from a personal inspection of the Erie Railway, has published his report, in which he describes the permanent way of the Erie Railway as quite equal to the standard in the United States, but the rolling stock, he says, is defective. The net revenue of the line is only twenty-one per cent. of the gross receipts, and the outstanding debts of the company are equal to about fourteen months' profits. Sir Edward would not raise new capital in the present state of the company's credit, but advises the bondholders to devote the earnings of the line toward paying off the debts, and to issue certificates for the mortgage interest. President Jewett is highly spoken of, and the bondholders are advised to support him to the utmost. A memorandum has been signed securing to English interests a substantial influence in the management of the company, promising to place the whole business on an intelligible footing.

In the course of his report he says Mr. Jewett speaks confidently of the probable future progress of the net earnings, but he [Sir Edward] postpones an expression of his own opinion until he has had an opportunity to inspect the next annual account and balance-sheet. Pending or proposed litigations with various parties involve complicated transactions and large amounts. The probable results of these proceedings cannot be included in the ledger entries necessary for constructing a balance-sheet. He continues: "In the present state of the credit of Erie the undertaking seems to me as impossible as it would be unwise, even if possible, to endeavor to raise and remit more capital from England. I can recommend no policy but that of self-redemption. The railway must pay its debts by using that part of its current net earnings which the courts may permit to be so appropriated. A receivership is the alternative of the time. Foreclosure has been threatened. If the latter is to be avoided there must be co-operation and control in the working of the former. I advise you to accept the receivership as the best alternative under all the circumstances now possible, and I further advise you to rely upon the honor, as I feel you may also rely upon the anxious labors and full experience, of the President and Receiver of the company."

IRELAND.

THE SYNOD OF CATHOLIC BISHOPS AT MAYNOOTH.

DUBLIN, Sept. 20.—The Synod of Roman Catholic Archbishops and Bishops at Maynooth was concluded to-day. Cardinal Cullen in his closing address said the decrees passed were designed to counteract increasing infidelity and lukewarmness in religion and revolution in politics. He hoped for good results. The Synod gave particular attention to the subject of the education of the young.

Tristany has been appointed the Carlist Captain General of Catalonia. The head-quarters of the Carlists are now near San Marcos, in the Province of Guipuzcoa. Gen. Saballs is expected there."

HOLLAND.

THE KING'S SPEECH AT THE OPENING OF THE STATES GENERAL.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 20.—The sessions of the States General were opened to-day by the King. In his speech he said the Acheen war had not been brought to a satisfactory result, but he had everything to hope touching a speedy and favorable end. He said the constantly disturbed condition of Venezuela had exercised an unfavorable influence at Curaçoa, but he hoped the negotiations now pending would remove this difficulty.

KHOKAND.

THE SON OF THE DEPOSED KHAN TO SUCCEED TO THE KHANATE.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.— A report has been received from Central Asia that the Khan Sade, the eldest son of the deposed Khan of Khokand, has had an interview with Gen. Kauffmann, and the latter is satisfied that Sade is not responsible for the recent hostilities against Russia. It is expected that Russia will recognize Sade as the successor of his father in the Khanate, but whether recognition will be accompanied by the armed occupation of Khokand is uncertain. At last advices all was quiet there.

MEXICO.

RAILROAD ENTERPRISES AND THEIR POLITICAL AND COMMERCIAL IMPORTANCE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Late intelligence from Mexico represents the condition of affairs in that country as extremely favorable. The work of political reconstruction under republican institutions is now practically consummated, and public attention is being turned to the work of material development. Great expectations are entertained that Mexico may be able to open an important commerce with the United States by means of the increased communication through the Gulf ports, and especially from the construction of the lines of inland communication by railroad, concessions for which were approved at the last session of the Mexican Congress. Of these the most important is that for the Mexican International Railroad, which, starting from Leon, a city of 10,000 inhabitants, in the State of Guanajuato, is to reach the Rio Grande, a distance of about 700 miles, and there connect with the International Railroad of Texas, and thus with the entire railroad system of the United States. From Leon to the City of Mexico, a distance of 280 miles, the surveys for a railroad under a concession previously voted are now in progress, and the line will probably be completed by the time the International Road from the border shall reach Leon. The construction of these lines of railroad will undoubtedly open an immense commerce between the two countries, of which, from its geographical position, St. Louis will necessarily be the grand distributing point. Arrangements are in progress which render it probable that in the construction of these roads American material will be exclusively employed. In the present depressed condition of the iron industry in the United States, it would appear of great importance that the control of the Mexican market for our products should be secured.

THE MAINE ELECTION.

THE OFFICIAL RETURNS.

AUGUSTA, Me., Sept. 20.—Official returns of the recent election from all the towns and cities in the State, except thirty-one, give Connor, for Governor, 57,852; Roberts, 53,077; Connor's majority, 4,775. The places remaining to be heard from last year gave Dingley 77 majority.

The Senate will stand 19 Republicans, 11 Democrats, and no choice of one member of the board in York County. The vacancy will be filled by the Legislature, giving a Republican majority in the Senate of 9.

The House of Representatives is complete with the exception of one district, Bridgeton, where there is a tie vote, showing 85 Republicans, 63 Democrats, and 2 Independents; Republican majority, 19. Last year the House was composed of 89 Republicans, 55 Democrats, and 7 Independents.

The Republicans will have this year 28 majority on joint ballot.

A GIFT FOR THE CENTENNIAL EXHIBITION.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 20.—The Women's Centennial Committee to-day unanimously voted to send $5,000 as a free gift for the new building to be erected on the Centennial grounds at Philadelphia, for the display of women's work.

DUNCAN, SHERMAN & CO. AND THE CITY OF ALBANY.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Duncan, Sherman & Co. owe this city $1,300 17, and they propose to settle at 33⅓ per cent., in five semi-annual payments. The Finance Department has agreed to accept the proposition.

GALVESTON UNDER WATER.

THE WORST OF THE STORM OVER.

ACCOUNT OF THE OVERFLOW—HOW THE CITY BECAME A LAKE—LARGE BUILDINGS FLOATED AWAY—THE BUSINESS PART OF THE CITY NOT GREATLY DAMAGED—CROPS PROBABLY DESTROYED.

NEW-ORLEANS, Sept. 20.—The Times gives the following account of the storm at Galveston, derived from newspaper accounts and statements of passengers from that city: To briefly summarize the disasters, the gale, by Wednesday at midday, reached such proportions that Captains of steamers who have been accustomed for years to traversing this portion of the Gulf declined to put to sea. Almost simultaneously with the announcement of this determination came the report that a ship-yard at the extreme eastern end of the island had been inundated, and that the men were fleeing for their lives. A rapidly-falling barometer indicated an increase of the storm, and the waters of the Gulf on the south side of the island gradually begun to encroach upon the gardens of the scattered residences skirting the beach, and they were soon overflowed, the water during the day reaching a depth of two feet.

All day long and during Thursday it blew a hurricane, pushing the waters of the Gulf over the entire island, and covering even the highest elevations to a depth of two feet and a half. This ridge embraces an area of, perhaps, twelve blocks of buildings, extending from Mechanic street to Market street, a distance of two squares, latitudinally, and from Centre street to Bath avenue, about six squares, longitudinally. In the entire rear of the east and west ends of the city the water rose to a sufficient depth to float large wooden edifices, many of which are very valuable. The residence portion of the city was affected from Tremont street for a distance of at least one mile and a half. Every garden and every foundation is destroyed. Domiciles are scattered promiscuously in the centre of the thoroughfares, many of them being jammed together. Further to the west, in the neighborhood of Oleander Park, where are many small farms and a number of stylish residences, the water is reported to have reached from six to nine feet in depth. A similar story is told of the eastern end of the island, which extends from Centre street at least one mile and a half.

In the business portion of the city large stocks of goods are kept on the ground floors, and one may estimate the injury which thirty inches of sea-water would involve. It is fair to presume that the earnings of an entire year will be exhausted in repairing the damages. Probably the vegetation has been utterly destroyed, but that the island is involved in wholesale ruin we do not apprehend.

A COTTON STEAMER ASHORE—THE DROWNING OF DR. PEEL—NARROW ESCAPE OF GOVERNMENT EMPLOYES—THE DAMAGE ESTIMATED AT TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS.

GALVESTON, Texas, Sept. 19.—During the storm on the 17th inst., the steam-ship Australian, loaded with cotton for Liverpool, went to sea from the outer roads and was driven ashore at St. Bernard, sixty miles west of here. Her surgeon and mate, who arrived here to-day, report that she is lying in seven feet of water. No lives were lost. The bark Edward McDonald, which was discharging at a wharf, was blown over upon the point of Pelican Island, in Galveston Bay, and is now aground in eight feet of water. It is thought she will be gotten off with slight damage. The Bayou steamer Beardstown was driven from her dock and broken to pieces, and is a total wreck. A number of her crew were reported to have been lost.

Dr. H. W. Peel, Health Officer of the Port, was at Quarantine station with his family. On the evening of the 15th he sent his family to the city, excepting a little grandson, who remained with him at the station. On the evening of the 16th the storm increased, and the water rose rapidly, carrying away the buildings, and the last seen of Dr. Peel and the little boy they were in the old fort, a short distance from Quarantine station. No tidings have yet been received from them, and it is supposed that they have both been lost.

The Government buildings, with all the material on land which was being used for the construction of gabions for harbor improvement, were swept away. A number of men employed on the works came to the city on the 15th, and when the water carried away the buildings twenty-seven men clung to the piling through the night, and all except two were saved by tugs. On the following morning dwelling houses on the eastern point of the island and along the beach on the south side were considerably damaged by water, and houses were blown down and washed off.

In the central and business portions of the city very little damage was done. It is estimated that $800,000 will cover all loses to property. Very little damage has been done to the wharf on the bay front. Many telegraph poles have been blown down. The railroad is badly broken on the island, culverts gone and tracks washed off. The bridge stands with the exception of 100 yards of stringers, and the iron piling remains. It will be several days before it can be repaired, but the trains will resume.

The damage above, on the bay and bayous, is reported to be very great. Commodore Morgan's fleet of dredge boats are reported driven ashore, and a number wrecked, at Harrisburg and Houston. The terrific gale drove the water higher up in the bay than ever before. It is feared damage has been done at Indianola and Western ports.

MOODY AND SANKEY'S INVITATION TO CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 20.—A meeting of evangelical ministers was held here to-day, to give definite form to the recent invitation extended to Messrs. Moody and Sankey to commence their labors in this city. Sixty-one ministers and many laymen were present, representing churches in the suburban towns as well as in Chicago. The invitation was made most pressing and was signed by all the Pastors present. A committee of five was then appointed to carry the letter of invitation and to urge a speedy and favorable response; also to pledge the signers to united effort in the work, and to give assurance that they would use every effort to prepare the way for the two evangelists.

STONEWALL JACKSON'S STATUE.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 20.—The detention of the Stonewall Jackson statue in Baltimore is supposed to be due only to the usual red-tape circumlocution of the United States Customs authorities. Gov. Kemper was notified of its arival in Baltimore some ten days ago, when he authorized the agent of the Powhatan Steam-ship Company to transfer it to this city. It was then expected that the statue would be sent at once, but he was informed later that it would be necessary to send his affidavit to the effect that the statue was a present to the State of Virginia in order to obtain its release from the Baltimore Custom-house without the payment of the regular tariff on such articles. Gov. Kemper promptly forwarded the official documents required in such cases, since which nothing has been heard further than that he will be duly notified as to the time of the shipment of the statue from Baltimore.

CUBAN INSURGENTS REINFORCED.

ARRIVAL OF THE STEAMER URUGUAY AT CUBA—ARMS AND SOLDIERS LANDED—INSURGENT VICTORIES EXPECTED.

News was received in this City yesterday of the safe arrival in Cuba of the steamer Uruguay, late Octavia, carrying with her a valuable cargo of munitions of war and a dozen or more officers of tried merit who have given their services to the cause of Cuban freedom. This expedition, which, for weeks past, has been in preparation, is regarded in the Cuban circles of this City as one of the most important that has descended upon the Cuban coast since the breaking out of the revolution in 1868. The Uruguay carried, as a reinforcement to the patriot cause, two batteries of artillery of four guns each, 1,500 stand of arms, and 500,000 cartridges. Notwithstanding the strict watch preserved by the Spanish man-of-war, the heavily-laden blockade-runner succeeded, under cover of the night, in reaching the coast of Cuba in safety on Sunday afternoon, after a run of 180 miles from Jamaica. On landing the new cannon were received by a detachment of the insurgent forces several hundred strong, and her long-expected cargo landed without difficulty. Among the officers accompanying the expedition are Col. P. Rosado, Col. Quelta, Col. Dominicis, Col. Wetzler, and the three sons of ex-President Prado, of Peru. Col. Dominicis served on the staff of Garibaldi, in Italy, in 1859, and is a commander of distinguished ability. Col. Wetzler, who is a German by birth, saw service in the Austrian campaign of 1866 and in the late war with France. The interest in their cause manifested by ex-President Prado is highly valued by the Cubans, all the more from the fact that his reelection to the Presidency of Peru, at the election to be held next month, is already assured. Several other South American States are represented in the expedition. The Cuban leaders in this City are loud in their congratulations over the auspicious event, and are confident that, with this additional assistance, the victory of the already triumphant insurgents is only a question of time. A leading Cuban banker, with whom a TIMES reporter conversed yesterday, said that every intelligent Spaniard here and in Cuba admitted the hopelessness of the war, and looked forward to a compromise between the contending parties as the only solution of the problem. For seven successive years Spain had been pouring the flower of her army into Cuba to subdue the rebellion, and to-day the insurgent army occupied a larger portion of the island than in 1868. Regiment after regiment and division after division of the best soldiers in the Spanish service had been sent out from the mother country, only to fall victims to the swords of the revolutionists or to the ravages of disease. The unequal contest was draining Spain of her best war material, and to-day her tottering Government was forced to confess what had long been patent to the world, that the Cubans could not be conquered. Under the command of Aguilera, the new Cuban President, backed by a patriot army of 25,000 men well armed with artillery and small arms of the most approved fashion, and doubly protected by the mountainous nature of the country, it was utterly impossible for Spain to carry on the war longer with any hope of success. These views were fully indorsed by other prominent Cubans who were acquainted with the state of affairs on the island. According to the secret intelligence forwarded them the army of the insurgents comprises over twenty thousand rank and file, with reserves which swell the total to the number already mentioned. In all the recent engagements the insurrectionists have come off victors, and within the last six months several important districts have been entirely recovered from the Spaniards.

A dispatch received in this City several days ago, confirms the rumor that President Aguilera landed in Cuba over a fortnight ago. He made the journey from Jamaica in a small schooner, and landed in safety with the members of his staff, and several volunteer officers. From this time forward an active prosecution of the war on the part of the insurgents is looked forward to by the Cubans of this country.

LOSSES BY FIRE.

D. D. Merriam & Son's lumber-yard, and a block of buildings including four dwellings and a three-story brick house, at Quincy, Ill., were burned on Sunday night. A high wind prevailed, and it was impossible to check the flames. For a time it was feared that the result would be much more serious. Merriam & Son's loss is estimated at $40,000, and the other losses will probably aggregate $20,000. The fire was the work of an incendiary.

A Cincinnati dispatch reports the burning of Webster Brothers' grain elevator and contents Sunday night, at El Paso, Ill. The loss is $12,000, and the insurance $3,000 in the Hartford on the elevator, and $1,000 in the Home of New-York on the grain. A planing mill and some grain cars were also burned, making the total loss $15,000.

Marvin's dry goods building, Burt's jewelry-room, Mrs. Prophet's millinery, the First National Bank, Dr. Case's dental-rooms, Gray's picture gallery, and the Odd-fellows' Lodge-rooms, all frame buildings, were burned at Cardington, Ohio, Sunday night. The total loss is $10,000; insurance unknown.

The batting mill of James P. Todd, at New-Boston, N. H., was burned on Saturday last. The loss is $3,500; fully insured. The fire originated in a picker.

THE ROWING MATCH BETWEEN O'NEILL AND ENGELHARDT.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The match race between James O'Neill and George Engelhardt comes off to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock, if the water is smooth. A severe storm prevailed here all day, accompanied with hail, the water running in waves two feet high, but toward evening it cleared off, and the water calming down O'Neill went out for a spin. Both men are in good condition, but O'Neill was troubled for a few days with a bad cold and still has a teasing cough. Pools are selling to-night with Engelhardt the favorite at $100 to $73

WASHINGTON.

THE HAYTIEN DIFFICULTY.

THE AMERICAN MINISTER THREATENED FOR HARBORING REFUGEES—THE MATTER PEACEFULLY ADJUSTED.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Secretary Fish states that no trouble is apprehended with the Government of Hayti, in consequence of the hostile demonstration recently made by a mob in front of the residence of the American Minister. The trouble arose because Gen. Cannale, the leader of the revolution, and a few of his followers, sought refuge in the house of Minister Bassett, who declined to surrender the refugees. The action of Minister Bassett was dictated by feelings of humanity rather than policy, it being certain that the refugees would have been summarily executed had he surrendered them.

In the Central and South American States, where revolutions are of frequent occurrence, the right of asylum has long been recognized by foreign Governments as well as the States themselves. Secretary Fish thinks this a doubtful policy, and long ago instructed the American representatives not to give it encouragement. In this instance Cannale and his followers sought refuge under the American Legation because it was most convenient, and, having gained it, Minister Bassett was reluctantly compelled to shelter them.

Secretary Fish has succeeded in persuading the Haytien Government to grant amnesty to Cannale and his followers, provided they leave the country, and the United States steamer Powhatan has been ordered to Hayti to take them off. Cannale is still lodged at the American Legation.

THE MISSISSIPPI TROUBLES.

GOV. AMES' TELEGRAM TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL—HIS REASONS FOR CALLING FOR UNITED STATES TROOPS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The following text of the telegram from Gov. Ames to the Attorney General, relating to affairs in Mississippi, was to-day made public:

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 11, 1875.

Attorney General Pierrepont, Washington, D. C.:

The necessity which called for my dispatch of the 8th inst. to the President still exists. Your question of yesterday, repeated to-day, asks for information which I gladly give. The violence is incident to the contest preceding the pending election. Unfortunately, the question of race, which has been prominent at the South since the war, has assumed magnified importance at this time in certain localities. In fact, the race feeling is so intense that protection for the colored people by the white organizations is despaired of. A political contest made on the white line forbids it. The history of the colored people since reconstruction, and its bearing on the situation at this time, and a detailed statement of the troubles here, cannot be condensed in a telegram. This State has been opposed to organizing a Militia of colored men. It has been believed by them that it would develop a war of races, which would extend beyond the borders of this State. The organization of whites alone, where the issue is one of race, would be equally ineffectual. The most complete protection would be found in the strict non-interference of the whites. Contradictions will be numerous, as they were last December, but the report of the Congressional Committee proves the correctness of my assertion.

I am aware of the reluctance of the people of the country to national interference in State affairs, though if there be no violation of the law there can be no interference.

Permit me to express the hope that the odium of such interference shall not attach to President Grant or the Republican Party. As the Governor of the State I made a demand which cannot well be refused. Let the odium, in all its magnitude, descend upon me. I cannot escape the conscious discharge of my duty toward a class of American citizens whose only offense consists in their color. I am powerless to protect.

(Signed,) ADELBERT AMES.

Attorney General Pierrepont says that the letter to Gov. Ames was intended to show that Federal troops would not be called out, except in strict accordance with the Constitution and laws, after the State had used its own resources; but if the necessity was forced the Government would indulge in no leniency toward lawless disturbers of the public peace or murderers of innocent men.

INDIAN AFFAIRS.

THE UTES DISSATISFIED WITH THE BOUNDARY LINES OF THE SAN JUAN CESSION—THE ATTACK ON THE HAYDEN SURVEY MADE BY OUTLAW INDIANS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The Commissioner of Indian Affairs this afternoon received the following telegram from Indian Agent Miles:

DENVER, Colorado, Sept. 20.

I met the Utes in council at the Los Pinas Agency on the 10th inst. They refuse to accept the southern boundary of the San Juan cession as located. The north line is not yet surveyed. They positively affirm that they will not accept any portions of the compensation guaranteed by the treaty of 1873, until the lines are established as agreed upon with Messrs. Brunot and Cree, in which they claim that no agricultural lands were to be ceded. I am unable to find that they have ever yet had an opportunity to receive any portion of the pay guaranteed by the Government for the San Juan cession. There are causes for pretty general dissatisfaction at present. Ouray, the chief, designates the band who attacked the Gardner and Hayden surveying party as a band of outlaw Pahutes whom he knows to have committed frequent murders and thefts during the past few years. He says he has no doubt they meant it for an attack and that he will furnish guides for troops which may be sent to punish them.

(Signed.) JOHN D. MILES,
United States Indian Agent and Special Commissioner.

THE RED CLOUD COMMISSION—THE REPORT BEING PREPARED—THE COMMISSION TO MEET IN NEW-YORK.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The members of the Red Cloud Commission, with the exception of Mr. Faulkner, were at the Interior Department this afternoon, and were furnished with various documents and maps of the Indian reservations. Mr. Faulkner left for home on Saturday evening and to-night all the other members leave, each being charged with the preparation of certain portions of the report referring to special subjects. The Chairman, Gov. Fletcher, will, it is said, write that portion of the report referring to the general question of the management of Indian affairs. A large amount of documentary evidence remains unprinted, but as soon as it is in type, which will probably be within ten days, the commission will reassemble in New-York to complete the report.

ARREST OF MEMBERS OF THE CANAL RING.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 20.—George D. Lord and William H. Bowman were this afternoon arrested on bench warrants issued by the District Attorney of Erie County on account of their connection with the Hand award. They go to Buffalo to-morrow to plead to the indictment.

THE DENISON HABEAS CORPUS CASE.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The decision of Judge Learned in the Denison habeas corpus case, discharging Denison on the ground that the Canal Investigating Committee had no power to compel witnesses to produce books and papers, was taken by the Attorney General to the General Term of the Supreme Court, to be reviewed by certiorari. The case was argued last week at Schenectady before the General Term, by Samuel Hand, counsel for the people, and Messrs. Ruger and Hiscock, of Syracuse, for Denison. The questions argued covered the whole matter of the legality of the Canal Commission and their powers. Decision was reserved.

WESTERVELT CONVICTED.

THE JURY FIND HIM GUILTY ON THE LAST THREE COUNTS—A MOTION MADE FOR A NEW TRIAL.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Sept. 20, 1875.

There was intense excitement in the city to-day over the verdict of the jury in the Westervelt case. At 10 o'clock the twelve came into court, and, in answer to the crier, Mr. Lister, stated that they had agreed upon a verdict, and that they found the prisoner at the bar guilty on the last three counts of the indictment and acquitted him on the first two. The jury were then polled and the same result obtained.

The counts upon which Westervelt was acquitted charged him with kidnapping and harboring, and concealing the child after the kidnapping. The three upon which he was convicted are the conspiracy counts, and are the third, fourth, and fifth in the bill of indictment. The third charges him with conspiracy to kidnap; the fourth with conspiring to extort money by means of threatening letters, and the fifth with conspiring to defraud the child of its liberty. The prisoner looked hopeful before the verdict was given, but when it was announced burst into tears, and by Judge Elcock's direction was removed from the court-room. His wife came into the room before the verdict was given, but seeing the jurymen all seated in their accustomed places, and, no doubt, dreading the result, hastily left the place, taking little Mamie and Peter, the children, with her. Immediately upon the verdict being officially announced, Mr. Ford, the prisoner's counsel, moved for a new trial and requested the court to note his motion. The Judge did as requested, and the usual four days will be allowed under the rules, which will bring the matter again before the court on Thursday or Friday, when, if the defendant's counsel does not show good cause for the new trial, it is probable sentence will be passed upon Westervelt.

In regard to the length of the term of imprisonment it is not known whether the Judge will make it nine or twenty-two years, as some lawyers contend that the law can be construed so as to allow of the long term being given, while others insist that nine is the limit.

In conversation with one of the jurymen your correspondent learned that when the jury retired on Saturday night they stood nine for conviction and three for acquittal. On Sunday one of these turned for conviction, and thus they stood up to 9 o'clock this morning, ten to two, Messrs. Buckley and Hammond holding out. At that hour the verdict was agreed upon. In regard to the testimony which was presented, the jurors said that the story of Mrs. Peer, the Brooklyn lady, who said she saw Westervelt in a Brooklyn horse car with a child resembling Charley Ross, they threw out altogether and took no notice of it. Henry Hartman's story relative to the prisoner telling him the child would be killed in three days if the kidnappers were arrested, was taken with many grains of allowance, while the stories of Messrs. McDowell and Poorley, from Germantown, who testified to seeing Westervelt in the latter part of July or first part of August, 1874, at Germantown, were also discarded. The prisoner's own statement was the strongest evidence of his participation in the crime.

THE GEORGIA TROUBLES.

JOE MORRIS, THE LEADER OF THE INSURRECTION, ARRESTED—A UNIQUE ARREST.

ATLANTA, Sept. 20.—Joe Morris, leader of the late insurrection in Middle Georgia, was captured here this evening. He had been hiding here for three days, and visiting United States District Attorney Farron at night, demanding a Ku-klux prosecution against certain citizens of Buck County. This evening he went to Farron's office, in the United States Court Building, and was talking with Farron, when Detective Murphy passed in the hall two or three times. Morris darted into Farron's private room and locked the door. Sheriff Perkerson and posse were immediately called to the scene. No other key could be found to unlock the door, and the Sheriff wrote a note to United State Judge Ersken for permission to break the door and take Morris. Ersken replied that the court had adjourned till morning, and he could grant no order. The Sheriff then climbed over the transom of the door and secured Morris. He had a razor, but did not attempt to use it. He was afraid of being lynched, and hoped by staying in the room that the negroes would rescue him. To-night he was put in the county jail to be taken to Burke County to-morrow for trial. A reward of $500 was offered by the Government for his arrest. He is small, country-looking, poorly dressed, and was much frightened when captured.

It is expected Judge Ersken will summon Sheriff Perterson for contempt to-morrow, and a conflict between the State and Federal authorities over Morris is probable.

THE WHISKY RING.

THE CASES OF THE CONNIVING OFFICIALS IN ST. LOUIS.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 20.—The United States Court met to-day, Judges Miller and Frost on the bench. Large crowds are in attendance, it being understood that several whisky cases would come up. The cases of Gen. John McDonald, Col. John H. Joyce, Mr. Fitzroy, and Alfred Bevis, indicted for conspiring to destroy public records, were called. These cases were certified from the District Court, they having been heard in that court on a demurrer. Several other cases of a similar character were called, in all of which pleas of not guilty were withdrawn and demurrers entered. Judge Chester H. Krum and John W. Noble spoke for the defendants. The defendants claim in their demurrer that the counts of the plaintiff's petition are double; that the acts with which defendants are charged are alleged to be acts which are consummated, which, if true, would make the defendants guilty of felonies, whereas they are charged with misdemeanors; that the office of the United States Collector of Internal Revenue is not a public office in the meaning and intent of the statute, as alleged in the information of the plaintiff. Ex-United States Senator John B. Henderson will probably argue for the Government.

THE BANK OF CALIFORNIA.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—There is but little news to note this morning concerning the affairs of the Bank of California. The subscriptions to the guarantee fund now amount to seven and a half millions. The sale of the assaying and refining works to Flood & O'Brien is not yet consummated. It is understood that everything is ready for a formal transfer, but that a disagreement exists between the Directors, a portion of whom oppose the transfer on the ground that the Ophir mine will produce enough bullion to keep the works busy.

ARREST OF A CATTLE RAIDER.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 20.—Doc Smith, one of the Texas herders who participated in the late Kearney Junction raid, was caught last night by the Sheriff on an island in the Platte River, about three miles east of Plum Creek Station, Neb., and is now confined in jail at that place. He is said to be the man who killed Milton Collins.

FROST IN NEBRASKA.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 20.—A heavy frost, the first of the season in this section, occurred last night. Vegetation of all kinds is said to be out of danger. The weather is remarkably cold, but clear.

CENTENNIAL HOTELS.

A GREAT WANT PARTIALLY MET.

THE TRANSCONTINENTAL—ITS DIMENSIONS AND EQUIPMENT — PLANS FOR THE GLOBE—SOME OF ITS DEFECTS—THE HOUSE OF THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD COMPANY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Sept. 20, 1875.

After the Centennial buildings the public is most deeply interested in learning what extra provisions are being made by Philadelphia for their entertainment. It was conceded from the outset that the hotel accommodations of this city were not capable of accommodating any particular throng of visitors. How certain this is may be guessed from the fact that the international cricket match has filled the Continental to overflowing, and yet the number of persons influenced by such an affair must be necessarily small. It will be difficult even for a person of strong imaginative powers to exaggerate the multitude that will inevitably visit the Centennial next year. I made a calculation last May that all the hotels in the city augmented and filled to repletion, could not accommodate more than from five to six thousand persons, nor is this inaccurate at the present moment. There is no doubt, however, that early in the Spring a considerable number of small hotels, capable of holding from sixty to one hundred guests, will start into existence. The main dependence of strangers who cannot get accommodation in the hotels now running will inevitably be in the two hotel structures at the gates of the Centennial Ground, which are now being built as fast as possible. As for the coupon scheme, which bright thought originated in the brains of the Woman's Work Association, its utter absurdity is self-evident.

THE TRANS-CONTINENTAL HOTEL.

The two hotels now in process of erection at the verge of the Centennial grounds are the Trans-continental, erected by Mr. Kingsley, of the Continental; Mr. Dobbins, a wealthy contractor, and their friends; and the Globe, built by a company of which Gen. Bingham and Mr. John Crump, a well-known architect, are the heads. To commence with the Trans-continental: This hotel is on the right hand side of Belmont avenue, with a front on that street of 180 feet, and another front on Elm avenue of 320 feet, the latter being directly in front of the main exhibition building, from which it is separated by the width of Elm avenue only. The building being of a triangular shape, the connecting side faces on an alleyway between the hotel and the gardens of a restaurant that neighbors it on Belmont avenue. It is of brick and five stories high. The ladies' entrance is on Belmont avenue, facing the Globe Hotel. The main entrance is at the apex of the triangle at the corner of Belmont and Elm avenues, facing upon the concourse of the Centennial ground. This name of concourse has been given to an enlargement of Elm avenue in front of the gates for the convenience of carriages and conveyances. From the main entrance the arrival steps into the office hall, a fine exchange 60 feet deep, of triangular shape, at the end of which rises a broad stairway that divides at the first landing. The hydraulic elevator is on the left of the stairway, and is designed to be a model of convenience and also of elegance. It is to rival the one recently placed in the Continental Hotel, the car of which is paneled in the most beautiful and expensive fashion with inlaid woods from a New-York atelier, in the most approved Pompeiian designs, is richly gilt, and cushioned luxuriously with crimson-velvet-covered lozenges.

The ladies' entrance on Belmont avenue admits to a suite of parlors and retiring rooms, from which one passes to the restaurant, a fine room 45 feet wide by 90 feet in length. This extends to the end of the building on Belmont avenue, and behind it come the kitchens, carving-rooms, sculleries, pantries, store-rooms, and offices generally, all facing on the alley, and completely out of sight, out of hearing, and out of scent of the public. The dining-room, which is on the second floor, immediately over the restaurant, is a larger room —120 feet in length by about the same width. Beside it are several private dining-rooms, and then passing along the corridor one arrives at the general parlor, immediately over the triangular office hall. This is to be a finely fitted room, and will be provided with French windows opening out upon the broad balcony, formed by the porte cochere, which is continued by balconies of ordinary size running along the second floor windows on Elm and Belmont avenues for about half the length of the fronts on these streets. On the opposite side of the corridor, immediately facing the dining-room, is the breakfast-room, which is directly over the kitchen. The rooms on this floor facing on Elm avenue are in suites of parlor, bedroom, bath-room and closet, the latter not being dark rooms, but lighted by transoms facing on the corridor, which will be nine feet wide and thoroughly lighted and ventilated by windows and wells. At the end of every corridor throughout the building there is a stairway, which, in consequence of the triangular shape, is an easy matter for the architect to accomplish, so that if, in spite of every precaution, there should be a fire, no matter where people run they will find a means of exit. Above, on the third floor, there are suites of rooms on both corridors, facing on Elm and Belmont avenues, and on the fourth floor there are suites of parlors and bedrooms. On the fifth floor there are only single rooms. Those rooms which do not face on the avenues are abundantly lighted, either facing on the garden of the neighboring restaurant, or on the triangular area left vacant in the centre of the building.

On the ground floor, however, this space is utilized. In the office hall, or exchange, the office is to the left hand, the right being occupied by cigar-stands, news-stands, &c. Left of the office is the private office, and beyond that the drug store, which has become an essential element of a first-class hotel. Next to the drug store, as if in solemn warning, comes the bar, which will be a large and well-fitted place. Beyond, or rather behind, comes the barber shop and a great billiard-room. Along the corridor on Elm avenue, and looking out upon the Exhibition Buildings, are the dining-rooms for children and for the hotel officers, among whom are to be, I understand, bandsmen. The gentlemen's offices and lavatories are arranged in the vicinity of the barber and billiard rooms. There is, however, a gentlemen's lavatory separated from the ladies' entrance parlor by a corridor only, so that the father of a family can be relieved of railroad dust by attentive waiters, and wash his heated brow without straying far from his spouse and little flock. Nothing can be conceived more comfortable and handy than the arrangement of this ground floor, which shows how true is the proverb that two heads are better than one. For in the building of a hotel two opinions must be consulted—that of the architect and that of the hotel-keeper. The first does not know what is wanted, but can do it when he is told; the last does know what he wants, but not the manner in which the result is to be brought about. All over the country, and especially in the South, are hotels with superb façades that are odiously inconvenient for the guest, and very awkward to handle for the proprietor. They were built by the architect alone. Here and there one finds buildings atrociously homely in appearance, but which are exceedingly comfortable for the guest and admirably adapted to hotel keeping. These were built by hotel-keepers.

The true union of what is required, beauty and utility, can only be attained by joining forces. The Trans-continental is one where this has been done, but as it is not intended to be permanent, although built of brick, the architect, Mr. Joseph M. Wilson, has had to take a subordinate position. Beyond a heavy cornice, a portcochere, and some brick arching, it will be entirely without exterior ornament, and the interior will faithfully follow suit. But, though not beautiful, it will be airy, comfortable, convenient, and with an excellent table. That much may be predicted with certainty, as it is to be kept under the superintendence and supervision of Mr. Kingsley, of the Continental. It will probably be in charge of one of his assistants in that hotel, and it is reported that the person who will have the responsible post will be Mr. Matthew Riley, well known both in Saratoga and Philadelphia, and also in Boston, where he was proprietor of the Ashland House. If Mr. Kingsley selects him he will certainly have a good manager, and one who is extremely popular with the traveling public. But it will be a trying time for all Philadelphian hotel keepers, who, accustomed to the steady tide of travel that never gets above a certain limit in the Quaker City, know nothing of the mad rush of the public at Saratoga and Long Branch, where hotels have fluctuations of 500 more or less in a single day. And therefore Mr. Riley will be a good man because he has had some Saratoga experience, and knows how strange a phenomenon the public is.

THE GLOBE HOTEL.

I wish I could say of the Globe Hotel what I have written of the Trans-continental, but I cannot with justice. The company that is untaking this vast enterprise rightly calculate upon the extraordinary numbers that will flock to the Centennial; but I greatly fear that they have not the knowledge requisite for handling them. This hotel is built partly on the ground of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and partly on the land of the Centennial Commission. It was at first the idea, as I reported in May, of the Centennial and the railroad to build a hotel in partnership; but this was abandoned, as I guess, from want of funds on the part of the Centennial Commission. The capitalists who should have come forward to take Centennial stock held back so timidly that at that time all the available funds came from the City of Philadelphia and the State of Pennsylvania. A company was formed who leased the ground from the two holders, paying, I think, the sum of $17,000 for the privilege of using it during the year. The location was admirable, seeing that the railroad runs the cars to the very door, literally speaking. Mr. Crump, the life and soul of the company, is an architect of Philadelphia of well deserved reputation, who built the Chamber of Commerce on Second and Walnut, also the Chestnut Street Theatre, also the Union League Club-house, a very pleasing and commodious structure; also the Bingham House, belonging to Adams Express Company; also several churches, also the Colonnade Hotel. Now he built the latter as a speculation, but not being able to get any hotel man of standing and means to undertake it, he ran it himself, and being an excellent economist, has made money. The location of the hotel, too, is good; it is on Walnut street, beyond Broad, and the most up-town of all the hotels. It has, however, very little transient business, hardly any at all in fact, but is filled by boarders of an excellent description. He engaged to make the plans and to run the hotel. The main and only grand entrance is on Belmont avenue. The ground plan of the building is peculiar, and something like the formation of a patent key. There is a front of 516 feet on Belmont avenue, with two wings, a northern one facing on Elm avenue, and a southern one on vacant ground, both of them 210 feet long, and three central extensions of the same length. The height of the building is fifty-one feet from ground to crest of Mansard roof, but the gables are much higher, the central one being eighty feet in height. The material of the building is wood, which is to be rough-cast in imitation of stone, and the architectural style is Tudor, the central gable being of curvilinear shape with angular points. There are four stories to the main building, with a basement in the English style, that is to say, almost level with the ground, being in fact two feet only below it in front, and actually on a level in rear. The end wings have the same height, but the central extensions are one story lower, though from a difference in the height of the first floor above the basement they have four stories too.

With regard to the arrangement of the rooms in these colossal structures the specifications say one thing and the plans of Mr. Crump another. This I believe arises from the fact that at first it was designed to have it on the European plan, but recently this has been abandoned, and it is now proposed to conduct it according to American ideas. I will give, therefore, the statements which I received from Mr. Crump, which I presume to suppose are those definitely agreed upon, and if they seem singular it is not my fault. The basement of the front on Belmont avenue is to be used for sleeping apartments, also the central one of the central extensions. Those to the right and left are to be used as kitchens. The basements of the end wings are to be fitted up as barber shops, with gentlemen's reading-rooms, and offices, and lavatories. It will be observed that everything is duplicated. There are two kitchens, two barber shops, two reading-rooms, two sets of gentlemen's offices, each one being distinct, and with no possible communication. The first floor is raised eight feet from the ground, except in the central extensions. On the main front the middle is occupied by an office hall 80 feet square, and this gives admission on the right and left to two dining-rooms, each 220 feet long by 55 feet wide. The windows of each upon the Belmont avenue front will be shaded by a permanent awning of gayly-striped cloth, stretching in an unbroken length from end to end. This reaches from the tops of the windows down to the veranda, which runs along the whole length also, but which, in order not to interrupt the view from the dining-room windows, is sunk six feet below the sills. It is entered by descending some steps from the main office, which is also the only means of exit. The pitch of the drop to the veranda, in consequence of this drop to the veranda, is so steep that the windows will be completely hooded, as the bottom of the awning will be actually below the sills. The dining-rooms occupy the whole depth of the main building, and necessarily, as otherwise they would not be in communication with the carving-rooms, which are immediately over the kitchens, located in the first and third of the central extensions. The bars are located on this floor, in the northern and southern wings, running to the extreme ends facing the railway cars. They, like the dining-rooms, will be 18 feet in height, will be of extreme length, and will be partitioned off to create more gentlemen's reading-rooms. The central one of the three central extensions will be fitted up as sleeping-rooms. Above this floor in the main building, over the office hall, will be three ladies' parlors, of 20 by 40, opening one into the other, the rest of the house, without exception, is devoted to bed-rooms, of which there are altogether 1,000. There are no sleeping apartments for servants in the building at all. They are to be provided for outside. The laundry, ice-house, &c., will also be outside.

Mr. Crump, who is a good architect, has made capital arrangements of stairways in case of fire, and has provided an excellent pumping organization, and has planned many excellent details, being really a man of ideas. But it requires no more than a mere cursory glance to see that it will be almost impossible to run a hotel built in such a way. The different departments are all away from each other as if they were playing hide and go seek, and double expenditure is necessitated by the duplex arrangement of the vital part of a hotel—its kitchen and dining-rooms. Everything, instead of being compactly settled side by side of its cognate departments, is scattered far away, and the whole thing is an instance of architectural inflation of the worst kind produced by the Centennial fever. The skeleton of the wood-work is nearly completed, and the men are hammering away at the roofing, so that no time is to be lost if the Globe Hotel is to be saved from being called the Philadelphia Folly. It will pay the company amply if they will give $10,000, hard cash, to some first-class New York hotel man to get them out of their slough and bring things together. Ten thousand dollars paid within a week as a consulting fee to such men as Mr. Darling, Mr. Hawk, Mr. Charles E. Leland, Messrs. George and Lewis Leland, Mr. James Breslin, or to Mr. Marvin will save them hundreds of thousands of dollars, besides inexpressible mortification. The profits of a great hotel mainly come from its savings, its parings down, but here expenses are inevitably doubled, and saving is impossible.

THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD HOTEL.

Another hotel which will probably play a conspicuous part in the Centennial is that of the Pennsylvania Railroad, at Bryn Mawr, a Summer resort about nine miles from Philadelphia. The drive from this charming little suburban village—for quite a village of villas has grown up around the hotel—is barely six miles to Belmont Hall, which is about a mile from the Centennial. To those who love to bowl along a good road in a T-cart or dog-cart or Whitechapel gig, behind a pair of good three-quarter-bred roadsters that keep up a rattling pace every foot of the way, this locality will offer great attractions. The railroad is largely augmenting it, and their architect, Mr. Joseph M. Wilson, a man of very great talent, to whom, indeed, is due the greater part of the credit of planning the machinery building, showed me the plans for ninety more bed-rooms, a large billiard-room, and a great play-room for children in wet weather. The grounds around are simply delightful. The lawns are very extensive and of a rolling, picturesque character, where the children can toss and tumble to their hearts' content. The stables are well built, but the accommodation is very insufficient for the present guests, and must certainly be trebled for the Centennial year. There are large parlors and fine, well-furnished, admirable bed-rooms, fitted up with every convenience. Mr. D. Rusd is the present manager, and gives great satisfaction, but, from what I hear, he may hardly be competent for the requirements of 1876. I am not able to say what the cost of living in this beautiful spot will be. It has been $3 per diem for transient boarders, and for permanent according to the locality of the rooms. Probably it will be far more next year, for the sun will be shining hotly, and the good Philadelphians will be making all the hay they can.

LAW REPORTS.

THE BARRE BANK ROBBERY.

A WRIT OF CERTIORARI AND STAY OF PROCEEDINGS GRANTED.

Return to the writ of habeas corpus granted on Friday by Judge Loew, in the Court of Common Pleas, in the case of George Miles, alias Myers, was made before the same Judge yesterday. As already published, Miles is held on a requisition from the State of Vermont, where he is charged with having participated in the robbery of the Barre Bank, in July last. A writ was issued in the first instance by Judge Donohue, of the Supreme Court, who refused to hear testimony to the effect that Miles was in this State at the time of the alleged robbery with a view to prove a want of identity. From this the prisoner proposed to appeal by way of certiorari to Supreme Court, General Term, and asked that he be admitted to bail pending the decision of the appeal. This application was denied by Judge Donohue, and immediately the present writ was sued out by the prisoner's counsel. When the case came up in Common Pleas, Chambers, yesterday, an application was made for an adjournment until Thursday because of the absence of Mr. William A. Beach, senior counsel for the prisoner, in the Court of Appeals. This motion was denied, but the prisoner was given until 2 o'clock P. M. to procure other counsel. At that hour John L. Hill appeared as counsel in his behalf.

Mr. William Allen Butler, who appeared for the State of Vermont, urged that according to the admission of the prisoner's counsel the matter was still pending in the Supreme Court in the form of an application for a certiorari, and that proceedings in the same case could not be entertained at the same time by two Judges sitting in different courts; that if it was a question of bail, or a question of determining whether the writ itself should be entertained, both those questions were res adjudicata, having been already passed upon by Judge Donohue, and should not be again entertained.

Mr. Hill proceeded to argue that upon the authority of the case of Lawrence, decided in the Court of Appeals, a prisoner was entitled to as many writs of habeas corpus as he saw fit to sue out from different Judges; that in the present case Judge Loew had a right to entertain the whole matter, notwithstanding the decision of Judge Donohue, and that a notice of intention to apply for a writ of certiorari did not necessarily commence that proceeding so as to have it considered pending in the Supreme Court.

At this point the associate counsel of Mr. Hill—Mr. Grant—came into court, and, after consultation with him, Mr. Hill announced that Judge Lawrence, of the Supreme Court, had just granted the writ of certiorari accompanied by a stay of proceedings. Notwithstanding this, Mr. Hill insisted on his right to still proceed with his motion to admit the prisoner to bail.

Judge Loew thought he was bound to take notice of the admission of the prisoner's counsel, made in open court, that the writ and stay had been granted by Judge Lawrence, and assuming it to be so, he said he must dismiss the writ of habeas corpus.

Counsel for the prisoner then produced the writ of certiorari and stay, and Judge Loew immediately dismissed the writ of habeas corpus, and remanded the prisoner to the custody of the Sheriff.

A CRIMINAL WHO DESERVED NO SYMPATHY.

In the Court of General Sessions yesterday, William McNevins, of No. 393 Second avenue, was placed on trial, charged with felonious assault. It appeared that on the night of the 5th inst. McNevins and one Thomas McKeon visited the rooms of an east-side organization known as "The Fly-aways," and afterward, in company with some twenty companions, visited a lager-beer saloon on First avenue and Fifteenth street, where an altercation took place. After leaving the saloon, McNevins renewed the quarrel with McKeon, and it was arranged between them that the difficulty should be settled by a "square" fight. The fight, however, did not prove to be a square one, inasmuch as McNevins, watching his opportunity, took McKeon by surprise, and, drawing a knife, stabbed him in the face, inflicting a deep and ugly wound. McNevins took the witness stand in his own defense, and admitted having done the stabbing, but said he did so in self defense. In the cross-examination McNevins admitted that in 1871 he had been tried for the murder of one William Hynes, convicted of murder in the first degree, and sentenced to be hanged, but had been ordered a new trial. He subsequently pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the third degree, and was sentenced to eighteen months in the State Prison. He also admitted that he had served a term on the island for assaulting a Police officer immediately after being released. The jury, without leaving their seats, found the prisoner guilty. Recorder Hackett regretted that the prisoner should again be found guilty of a grave crime after having once been tried and convicted of murder. Young as he was, his whole life seemed to be devoted to the commission of atrocious crimes against life. He deserved no sympathy and should receive no mercy. His Honor then sentenced the desperado to five years in the State Prison at hard labor.

RECORDER HACKETT'S COURT.

In the Court of General Sessions yesterday, Recorder Hackett presiding, Assistant District Attorney Lyon prosecuting, John Burns, charged with pointing a loaded pistol at Gustav Bischoff, of No. 308 Eighth avenue, on the 2d inst., pleaded guilty to assault and battery, and was sent to the Penitentiary for one year. John J. McCoy and Matthew Farrell, two lads who broke into the store of Fell & Van Ness, No. 414 Second avenue, and stole therefrom property valued at $142, pleaded guilty, and were sent to the House of Refuge. John Naegle, aged thirteen, who stole a watch and chain and 50 cents from Robert Gunther, a newly arrived emigrant, pleaded guilty. Sentence was deferred until Thursday. Maggie Robinson, colored, charged with cutting a rival named Susan Palmer, of No. 44 Baxter street, with a razor, pleaded guilty, and was sent to the State Prison for eighteen months. Frank Hartnot, charged with stealing $1 50 from the person of Robert J. Lendrum, of No. 406 West Forty-seventh street, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to two years and six months in the State Prison.

THE BOSTON AND CHARLESTON STEAM-SHIP COMPANY.

The statement of the affairs of the assignee of the Boston and Charleston Steam-ship Company was filed in the office of the Clerk of Common Pleas yesterday. The debts of the company are stated at $230,827 95; its nominal assets, consisting of two steam-ships, at $100,000, and its real assets at $60,000. A bond in the sum of $75,000 was ordered to be filed by the assignee.

COURT NOTES.

School Commissioner William Herring, of Westchester, the newly-appointed Assistant District Attorney, entered upon the performance of his duties in the Court of General Sessions yesterday, and conducted the prosecution of a number of cases.

William H. Arnold, a milkman, who had enlisted in the Army, was taken before Judge Blatchford yesterday on habeas corpus, having applied for his discharge on the ground that he was intoxicated when he enlisted. The case was referred to Commissioner Osborn to take testimony.

James A. Duffy, convicted of firing a pistol at Deputy Controller Earle, whose case has been taken to the Court of Appeals, was admitted to bail in $10,000 yesterday by Judge Donohue, pending the result of the appeal. Phillip Duffy, of Fordham, brother of the accused, furnished the necessary bail.

The diamonds seized by Special Agent Brackett and Inspector Fideau on suspicion that they had been smuggled by J. Paley, of No. 46 Chatham street, were turned over by United States District Attorney Bliss, who had kept them in his safe since Saturday, to Special Agent Brackett yesterday, in order that the case might be examined at the Custom-house.

Thomas Martin, a seaman on the steamer Charleston, from Charleston, was held by Commissioner Shields, yesterday, on a charge of having stabbed James Dunnigan, a fellow-seaman, on Sunday last, just before the vessel entered this port. Dunnigan was severely wounded in the thigh. Martin, who said he had stabbed him in self-defense, was held to answer, in default of $2,500 bail, and Dunnigan was sent to Bellevue Hospital.

William J. Sharkey, the escaped murderer of Robert Dunne, having sailed from Cuba for Jamaica, District Attorney Phelps has taken the necessary steps to secure the extradition of the fugitive, through the agency of the United States Government. It is probable that Sharkey will be arrested on arriving in British waters and handed over to the United States Government as soon as the necessary forms have been complied with.

WILL CASES.

The will of Mrs. Eliza Hicinbothem, in favor of her husband, which had been contested by the sister of the testatrix, on the grounds that it had been procured by the legatee by fraud, and that the signature to it was not that of the testatrix, was admitted to probate yesterday by Surrogate Hutchings.

Mary Ridgeway, one of the victims of the steamer Schiller disaster, made her will before embarking on the steamer, leaving $1,500 to Eliza Rouse, her servant, and requesting that she be retained in the service of her grandchildren, Joseph R. and Mary R. Walker, to whom she left the bulk of her estate, of the estimated value of about $700,000. She named Nicholas Longworth and Julius Dexter, both of Cincinnati, as Trustees to hold the estate until her grandchildren became of age. The will has been filed in the Surrogate's Court, and, as the grandchildren were, to the best of the knowledge of the Trustees, lost with their grandmother, the property will probably revert to the next of kin.

THE SCANDAL SUITS.

In the City Court of Brooklyn yesterday, the note of issue in the suit of Theodore Tilton against the Eagle for libel was served. The note of issue against the same paper in a similar suit brought by Henry C. Bowen was also served.

By mutual consent of counsel on either side, the case of Theodore Tilton against Henry Ward Beecher, which was on the Calendar of the City Court yesterday, went over to the next term of the court.

TWEED'S LIS PENDENS.

Another piece of property has been relieved from the lis pendens filed in the civil suit against William M. Tweed. In this instance the property is claimed by John Brower, and consists of a plot of ground bounded by the old Bloomingdale road and the Riverside Park, and One Hundred and Eighth and One Hundred and Ninth streets.

MONDAY, Sept. 20—P. M.

The speculation on the Stock Exchange to-day, with the single exception of Erie, exhibited remarkable buoyancy, and the depression which has recently formed the most prominent characteristic of the market was entirely absent. The improvement may possibly be merely one of those spasmodic changes in the temper of speculation to which Wall street is so well accustomed, and not destined to be permanent, and the bears confidently assert that such is the case. Be this as it may, the fact is indisputable that before the close of business to-day there was more confidence exhibited in the stability of values than has been witnessed for some time past, this confidence being apparently based upon some good buying of stocks. The recent decline seems at last to have attracted outsiders to the market, and particularly some capitalists who have held aloof from Wall street for months. The improvement was most marked in Lake Shore and Western Union, but the better feeling prevailing communicated itself to the general list. Western Union, after declining to 76¾ at the opening, advanced to 78½, and closed at 78¼. Lake Shore, on very large transactions, rose from 52⅜ to 54¾, and closed within ⅛ ₱ cent. of the highest point. North-western common rose to 39⅜, and the preferred to 54⅛; St. Paul to 35⅝, and the preferred to 63¾; Hannibal and St. Joseph to 21¾; Missouri Pacific to 46⅜, and Pacific Mail to 36½, with but slight reaction at the close. Erie formed a marked exception to the general strength of the market, declining from 20 to 18¾, and closing at 18¾@18⅞.

The money market was easy during the morning hours at 2@3 ₱ cent. to Stock Exchange borrowers, but late in the afternoon there was an increased demand, and the rate for call loans was advanced to 6 ₱ cent., although at the close money was obtainable at 4@5 ₱ cent. This advance in money was attributed on the street to the return of borrowed Western Union stock, which caused some brokers to become borrowers, unexpectedly, just previous to the close of bank hours; but aside from this natural causes are at work to produce more healthy rates for money, and it would not be surprising to see the market harden in the future. There is no reason to anticipate anything like stringency, but an approach to the legal rate of interest from strict business causes would inspire confidence both in and out of Wall street.

The foreign advices reported very little change in either consols or United States bonds. The movement of bullion at the Bank of England was unimportant, only £3,000 sterling having been withdrawn on balance to-day. A decline in Erie from 18¼ to 16 naturally had a depressing influence on the stock here, the decline being attributed to reports that Sir Edward Watkins had made an unfavorable report in regard to the affairs of Erie, or at least one quite different from that which the majority of speculators at this side had anticipated. The sterling exchange market was lower and unsettled, on account of the rise in gold and the increased dearness of cash gold. The leading drawers reduced their rates to $4 80 and $4 84, but it was impossible to sell any bills at these figures, even at considerable concession. The brokers were offering bankers' bills at $4 78@$4 79 for 60 days, and $4 83 for demand, without inducing much business. The gold market opened at 116¾, from which point there was an advance to 117¼, followed by a reaction to 116⅞, a recovery to 117¼, and a final close at 117⅛. Most of the business of the day was at 117@117⅛. In the loan market borrowers had to pay 1-64 to 1-16 for the use of gold.

Government bonds were firm and higher. State bonds were quiet and steady. Railroad mortgages were firm in the main.

Sales were officially reported, for prompt delivery, of 1,279 bales, (of which 154 bales were on Saturday evening,) all to spinners.... New Cotton offering from wharf at much under the official figures, which represent old Cotton, from store.... FLOUR AND MEAL—State and Western Flour has been very lightly dealt in, as a rule, and prices have been generally quoted weaker, and at the close favoring buyers. Choice old Minnesota Extras have been held with exceptional firmness, on a reduced stock and fair inquiry. Superfine and No. 2 attracted less attention.... Sales since our last have been 9,700 bbls. of all grades, including poor to very choice No. 2 Flour at $4 20@$4 75; very poor to very choice Superfine and Western at $5@$5 50, the latter for fancy; inferior to choice Extra State at $5 60@$6, chiefly at $5 65@$5 80; choice to very fancy do., $6@$6 40; City Mills Extra, $5 60@$6 85, chiefly $6 25@$6 75; poor to choice shipping Extra Western at $5 60@$6; choice to fancy do., at $6@$6 40; round-hoop Ohio at $5 60@$6 for odd lots and lines; poor to very choice Minnesota Extra, plain, $6 25@$7 85, and patent at $7@$9 75, the latter for very fancy; Western trade and family Extra Spring Wheat stock, $5 90@$7 75; fair to very choice Western trade and family Extras, Red and Amber (Winter) Wheat stock, at $6@$7 75; Western White do. Included in the sales have been 3,400 bbls. shipping Extras, part City Mills, on the basis of our quotations.... A limited demand has been noted for Southern Flour, even in a jobbing way, at drooping rates. Sales have been reported since our last of 800 bbls., in lots, at $5@$5 60 for Superfine, chiefly at $5 25@$5 50, delivered; $5 75@$6 75 for poor to very choice shipping Extras, and $6 85@$8 85 for ordinary to very choice trade and family Extras.... Canada Flour dull and wholly nominal.... Rye Flour has been in slack request within the range of $4 25@$5 70 for poor Fine to very choice Superfine, the latter rate for very small lots. Sales 350 bbls., chiefly at $5 25@$5 50 for Superfine.... Corn-meal has been unusually dull, buyers having been unwilling to make bids for large lots. Prices have been quoted nominally at from $3 65@$4 35 for poor to very choice Yellow Western; $3 75@$4 25 for Jersey and Pennsylvania, and $4 35@$4 45 for Brandywine, from dock or delivered. No important sales reported.... Corn-meal, in bags, $1 40@$1 80 ₱ 100 ℔.

GRAIN—Spring Wheat has been in quite moderate request, mainly for shipment, at a further reduction of fully 1c. ₱ bushel on prime, which, however, closed rather steadier. Poorer grades, pressed for sale and difficult to place; quotations decidedly lower and very irregular. Winter Wheat quiet and weaker in price; demand mostly for good to choice White, and best Amber, chiefly for milling. The business in Spring has been mainly in prime old No. 2 Milwaukee, in store. Sales have been reported, since our last, of 178,000 bushels at $1 25@$1 26 for prime to choice old No. 2 Milwaukee Spring, in store, (on which basis 107,500 bushels were represented as having been sold,) closing at $1 26 for prime; $1 21½ for strictly prime old No. 2 Chicago Spring, in store, (17,000 bushels;) $1 15@$1 20 for soft to about prime new No. 2 do., car lots, (with $1 33 reported as bid, and $1 35 asked for strictly choice old No. 1 Milwaukee Spring, in store;) $1 38@$1 45 for good to very choice new White Western, the latter rate for very choice Michigan (ten car loads;) $1 38@$1 40 for fair to good old White Michigan, car lots; and within the previous range, nominally, for Red and Amber Western; low grades of new Winter almost unsalable.... Corn has been quoted about steady on a fairly active movement, mainly for shipment, closing rather easier. The export purchases have been mostly of the better qualities of steamer mixed Western.... Sales have been reported of 147,000 bushels at 73c.@75c. for fair to choice sailing vessel new Mixed Western, chiefly at 74c. for prime, afloat; 71c.@73½c. for inferior to strictly prime steamer do. do., afloat, mainly at 73c. for prime; 74½c.@76c. for new Yellow Western; 66½c.@71c. for damaged and warm new Mixed Western afloat.... Barley Malt has been in limited request, with Canada West quoted nominally at from $1 50@$1 60, cash and time; four to six rowed State $1 25@$1 35; two-rowed do., at $1 20@$1 30, cash and time.... Canada Peas, neglected and nominal.... Oats have been in less demand, and quoted about 2c. a bushel lower, closing heavily, with the offerings under the grade of prime, more liberal and urgent. Sales have been reported, since our last, of 64,000 bushels at 35c.@52½c. for unsound to strictly choice new Mixed Western, the latter an extreme, mostly at 47c.@50c. for fair to very good; 42c. for poor new Black do.; 40c.@55c. for unsound to choice new White Western, chiefly at 50c.@52c. for fair to very good; 50c.@55c. for new White State, the latter rate for choice, and about 57c. for strictly prime old Mixed Western, delivered.... The dealings have been mainly on the basis of $29 50@$30 50 for Rye Feed and Millstuff; $23@$25 for 50 to 60 ℔., and $22@$22 50 for Bran, ₱ ton.... Bale Hay has been rather more sought after, within the range of from 65c.@75c. for good to choice shipping grades, and at 85c.@$1 10 for retailing qualities, ₱ 100 ℔.; Clover, 55c.@65c.; Salt Hay, 50c.@65c.... THE EPIZOOTIC IN ROCHESTER.

The Rochester Union says that the epizootic is epidemic in that city, and that the great majority of the horses there have the disease, however, in which it prevailed three years ago. We quote:

"It seems to affect the throat this time, and there is very little discharge from the nostrils. If there was a copious discharge it would be better for the animals. The cough is distressing and the glands of the throat swell, but readily yield to treatment, generally an application of a stimulating liniment or counter-irritant. Some horses will go for hours without coughing, but after eating or drinking will have spasms of coughing which weaken them considerably. Some of the animals refuse to drink until liniment has been applied, that appearing to have the effect of removing irritation of the throat. The storm of the past few days does not seem to have aggravated the disease. The Rochester City and Brighton Railway Company has 171 horses in the stables, and every one is more or less affected. There have been no severe cases as yet, and the disease readily yields to treatment. The livery stable horses are also attacked, and many of them more seriously than the street car horses—simply for the reason that they are not given attention. The omnibus horses—in fact, all horses—share in the general indisposition. The worst case we noticed this morning was that of a gentleman's horse being driven before his buggy. In this instance there was a discharge from the nostrils and dullness of the eyes. A gentleman who came from Penn Yan yesterday says that the disease is prevailing there quite severely, more so than here. We have similar reports from all about us."

WESTERVELT has been found guilty on the last three counts of the indictment against him. These are: 1. Conspiracy to kidnap. 2. Conspiracy to extort money by means of threatening letters. 3. Conspiracy to defraud the child of his liberty. On the first two counts, charging him with kidnapping the child and concealing him after being kidnapped, WESTERVELT has been acquitted. As a motion for a new trial has been made, sentence will be deferred for four days, to permit a decision, to be reached on that motion. Legal opinions seem to differ as to whether a maximum sentence of twenty-one years, or one of only nine years, can be inflicted.

One of the latest evidences of Gov. TILDEN'S anxiety to increase the Democratic vote, is his restoration to citizenship of the professional ruffian WILLIAM CONROY. This person has achieved a very unenviable notoriety in and around Cold Spring, and other Hudson River towns. He is believed to be the leader of a gang of burglars who have kept the householders of that part of the country in a constant state of alarm. He lately emerged from Sing Sing prison after finishing a sentence of four years and a half for grand larceny, and was rearrested on Aug. 10 for being concerned in some professional business at Utica, in the course of which a family was gagged and robbed. CONROY has always been a scoundrel of the lowest type, and besides bringing into contempt the exercise of Executive clemency, the Governor has done his best to degrade the standard of citizenship even below the level maintained by his party in making a useless present of political privileges to such a man.

The Evening Post continues to follow "TILDEN'S gonfalon" with as much assiduity as it ever hunted up a Ring printing contract. It thinks "that the leading Democratic candidates for State offices should be allowed to carry the election by a thumping majority." "There is, of course," says this latest imitator of the Ghibelline mercenaries, "no hope of securing the election of the Republican ticket." We have heard something very like this before, in the days when NATHANIEL SANDS was chief political adviser to the Post, and when it pointed to the two per cent. tax levy as conclusive proof that TWEED and SWEENY were bringing forth works meet for repentance. The only thing which follows as a matter "of course" from the Post's arguments is that a once Republican newspaper has gone over, with certain persons whom the party can well spare, to the Democrats, and that for his newspaper organs, as for his candidates, Gov. TILDEN decidedly prefers renegades.

If "dress reform" conventions would only talk intelligible language and be content with something less than a complete revolution in attire as the beginning of their labors, they might succeed in making some impression on public opinion. But it is hardly possible to expect much from the labors of a body like the "American Free Dress League," which presents as one of the results of two days' discussion a dictum like this: "Resolved, That the external pressure and burdensome weight of dress must be removed before mankind can unfold integrally." It may be an end worth living for to be able to "unfold integrally," but on the other hand, it may not, and it is a fair enough conclusion that people who find it necessary to employ an intelligible dialect to express their ideas are liable to mistake strangeness for originality, and sound for sense. It may sound fine to appeal for a more rational style of dress "for suffering Virtue's sake," but it would be more to the purpose to make the appeal on grounds more obviously related to the subject in hand.

The Vanguard iron-clad, which was recently sunk by a collision with the Iron Duke, was supplied with water-tight compartments, but, nevertheless, sank so soon after she was struck that her crew had a very narrow escape. A letter in the London Times explains this fact by asserting that either two of the Vanguard's compartments were stove in, or else the doors between them were left open. It is notorious that the water-tight compartments of most passenger steamers are carefully made useless by being cut through and provided with doors which at the moment of danger are nearly certain to be found open. It is, however, rather remarkable that the same pernicious practice should be permitted in the Royal Navy. Of course we do not know that the doors of the Vanguard's compartments were left open; but in that case her sinking could have only been due to the insufficient number of her compartments; and whichever explanation is accepted, her builders are in a great measure responsible for her loss.

The result of the debate which is now in progress in the Servian legislative Assembly will doubtless determine the issue of the Herzegovinian revolt. Should Servia take sides with the insurgents, the resources of Turkey would be so severely taxed to subdue her rebellious subjects that her rulers would probably adopt the much-talked of solution of the difficulty by allowing Bosnia and the Herzegovina to be made a semi-independent State. Should the party of inaction carry the day in Servia, the stamping out of the last remnants of this insurrection is only a question of weeks or months. But the present outbreak is not the first armed protest of a population smarting under nearly every form of political wrong, nor will it be the last. The Mohammedans in Bosnia and the Herzegovina number 390,000, while the Greek and Catholic Christians number 718,000. The fact that the Mussulmans are of the same race and language as the Christian population does not make their arrogant assumption of social and political superiority and their exceptional immunities from the burdens of taxation less easy to bear. What remains of the earnings of the peasantry after the extortions of the native Mohammedan landlord have been satisfied are swept up by the Turkish tax-gatherer. There is no grievance so vital as one which touches the pocket-nerve, and however much pretense there may be about the Slavic desire for national union, there is a great deal of reality about the determination of the Christian rayahs of Turkey to be allowed to enjoy the fruits of their own labor.

THE REAL ISSUE IN THE STATE ELECTIONS.

It is plain that the different State elections this Fall are in reality mere skirmishes before the general conflict, which will culminate next year, over the control of the National Government. And as far as the Democrats are concerned, a peculiar bitterness is lent to these opening contests by the fact that they involve the Democratic nomination for President. Thus it comes about that while the Democrats are as eager as they ever were to defeat the Republicans, there are a number of factions in that party each anxious to gain an advantage over the others. At present the proper method for each faction to show its strength, is by rolling up Democratic majorities wherever they may be in the ascendant, so that the apparent discord which exists in the several States is, to this extent at least, a source of strength. But the case will be very different when the various factions bring their tale of victories to the general convention, and engage there in the contest for which they are now accumulating force. Then we shall either see the party badly rent and weakened by the quarrels of its constituent elements, or we shall see an attempt made to secure a candidate who will not be objectionable to any one. If the question were one of the supremacy of partisan factions merely—if it only involved the personal fortunes of the various greedy aspirants for the nomination, the country could afford to look on with indifference. But this is not the case. The quarrel really involves the determination of the policy of the Democratic Party—should it be successful—upon the most important question ever submitted to the country, and, therefore, it cannot be lightly regarded.

The differences which divide the Democratic Party are irreconcilable. It is perfectly idle to expect that the National Convention of that party can make any practicable compromise with reference to them. Payment in specie is not repudiation; contraction is not inflation; honesty is not rascality, and there is no common ground on which the advocates of the former can stand with those who propose the latter. Either one section or the other of the Democratic Party, divided as it is on these vital points, must surrender, and that completely. If there is anything devised in the form of a compromise, it must be in essence a surrender for one side or the other.

Our own opinion as to which side is likely to win is only too well settled. There is no room for doubt that when it comes to the final contest, the force of numbers, as well as the boldness, the earnestness, and the hopefulness so necessary to success are all with the inflationists and the repudiators. They are acting under the powerful impulse of both direct and indirect interest. They feel the stimulus of political ambition and of personal need. They see in the triumph of their policy not only the means of carrying their ends in their own party, but, in addition, the means of mending their personal fortunes, which are everywhere at a low ebb. The inflationist faction rely largely on enlisting the desperate and the more dishonest of those who are in debt in their schemes; and they have reason for this reliance. And to oppose them the hard-money men have very little of either energy or courage. The hard-money leaders give way as THURMAN in Ohio and RANDALL in Pennsylvania have done, and pretend that they have not been in the fight, and that the financial issue has nothing to do with State elections.

These are facts which must be borne in mind when the question comes up which party ought to be supported this Fall. A vote for the Democratic Party will, directly or indirectly, strengthen the inflationists. If it is to be cast in Ohio, the contribution to the inflation cause will be immediate. There, there is no affectation of disguise. The paper-money men have got the hard-money men under complete subjection, and they will appropriate all the strength of the party from whatever source. In Pennsylvania, the same is true. In New-York the process is only a little more roundabout. A vote for the Democratic ticket helps the party which, as a national organization, the inflationists are sure to control. Those who suppose that the leaders in this State, handicapped by a strong element in favor of inflation among their immediate constituents, can make head against the Ewings, the Carys, and the inflation managers of the West and South, will find their mistake. If, under this supposition, they lend their support to the Democrats in New-York, they may find the mistake when it is too late.

THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

The Board of Education has had its first meeting after the opening of the school year, and indicated in part what will be the drift of their movements during the coming season. In relation to the future welfare of the masses of the City's population, these Commissioners hold by far the most important and influential position among the different departments of the City Government. No one influence will so shape the character and even affect the political aspect of this City as the training in the public schools. Whatever is done in this direction reaches far in the future, and each measure of the directors of our common school education ought to be closely watched. The board itself, as we have often hitherto had occasion to remark, is an able and honest body, and working in the public interest. But there are certain reforms in the school administration, absolutely needful and approved by the public, which its members either do not fully appreciate themselves, or which their agents are not seeking heartily to carry out.

First comes the very simple reform of sufficient school accommodation for the children of the working classes. There are various districts of the City where there is not absolutely school-room save for a fraction of the young children. If the Commissioners will visit the extensive district lying west of the Park, from Fifty-ninth to Seventy-ninth street, they will not find school accommodation for twenty-five per cent. of the boys and girls who throng the shanties and tenement-houses of that neighborhood. So with other districts. There are notoriously many schools where a child, if he misses his seat for a few days, can never recover it, so numerous are the applicants. The Trustees would probably explain this deficiency by the want of funds to build more school-houses. But the obvious reply to this is that it is a mere question of organization and distribution of moneys. They can cut down the estimates for higher education, and fill out the quotas for what is far more important—the education of those who will get no other. Or they can make more modest efforts, and hire small and plain buildings if they cannot afford to build better. They might follow with advantage the example of the "industrial" and "corporate schools" which give a good education to their poor children in very cheap and plain rooms.

Another matter is now of especial importance—the execution of the Compulsory law. The board has thus far limited itself to forcing truants and plainly street-wandering children into schools—commonly such schools as are planned for destitute children by benevolent societies. So far this work has been useful. But a vastly more important field lies beyond for the action of this law among the numerous class of children engaged in street trades and those in factories and shops. It is reported on good authority that the board intends to enforce the law on this large body of youth after the first of January next. If this is its purpose, it should already be carefully preparing night schools and half-day schools for these numbers of boys and girls. We do not observe that the list of night schools is materially longer, or that much larger provision is made than usual for these two great classes of youth. This is the more remarkable, for the additional expense of night schools is only in teachers' salaries, as the rooms and furniture of the day schools would be used.

It is true that considerable numbers will be forced into the corporate schools under the board, and also into the evening schools of the various lodging-houses and similar institutions. But the throng of little ones—if the law be executed—would be manifestly far beyond the capacity of these institutions to receive. The Trustees of our public education are to remember that they have a very serious duty in this matter. The Legislature of the State has passed the law, and has empowered them to execute it. They have no right to shirk their obligation. Right-minded people throughout the State are watching with deep interest how this new act will fare at the hands of the leading educational board of the State. The experience of other American cities, and of foreign countries, shows that there is no one cause which will so tend to diminish juvenile crime as compulsory education. The whole political success of our Commonwealth depends on the intelligence of the lowest classes. The Board of Education is, above all, bound to promote this by all means in its power.

AN ODD DIPLOMATIC DISPUTE.

A contemptible little piece of barbaric presumption at Tripoli has lately reminded us that Tripoli is at least a geographical expression. Considering the infamous history of that nest of pirates and slave-traders, the world would willingly forget the existence of Tripoli. The last that we recollect of that country was its having a long series of unpleasant encounters with those heroes of our young navy—BAINBRIDGE and DECATUR. At that time Tripoli was one of the Barbary States, and was a rendezvous for those rascally corsairs who preyed upon the commerce of the world, sold white and black men and women into slavery with strict impartiality, and furnished adventures for poets and romance writers. The American Navy gave Algiers, Tunis, and Tripoli a good thrashing in those far-off days, and the cowed pirates agreed, among other things, to discontinue slave trading, renounce piracy, and always salute our flag first when it arrived in a Tripolitan port at the mast-head of a visiting man-of-war. This done, so far as we have any information, Tripoli was quite forgotten.

In fact, we have gone on treating with the Bey of Tripoli just as we did in 1815, when he was an independent Prince. But in 1832 the last of his line was forced to acknowledge his allegiance to Turkey. Since that time the rulers of Tripoli, whether called Bey or Pasha, have been under the nominal sovereignty of Turkey. For some reason, the United States Government alone of all the civilized nations holding communication with the Tripolitans, have recognized the Bey as the supreme ruler. It must be confessed that the Tripolitans have not kept their promises very well. They still carry on a sort of back-door trade in slavery; and they have never been held to the bargain of firing a salute to our men-of-war, for the simple reason that the opportunity for such an expenditure of gunpowder does not often occur. As the original grievance between our country and Tripoli was their habit of depredating upon our commerce, we need not say that this cause of war has long since disappeared. The day of piracy has passed away on the Barbary coast, as well as elsewhere.

It is still the custom to maintain a United States Consul at Tripoli; and when we had any trouble there we are supposed to go at once to the Pasha, and not to the Sultan of Turkey. Not long ago, however, some Turkish sailors, roaming about the capital city of Tripoli, entered the garden of United States Consul VIDAL, as if in search of amusement. One of them made bold to penetrate the house and enter the apartment of the ladies, where he asked for a cigar light. As this Moslem Jack Tar could not have known that there was any difference between Mohammedan and Christian notions of womenkind and their treatment, he must have supposed that he had broken into the Consul's harem. This was a daring feat, and, according to Moslem lights, it subjected the sailor to severe punishment. The Consul, however, contented himself with kicking the intruder out of his house and complaining to the Pasha of this invasion of his privacy. That functionary, curiously enough, assumed that the Consul was the law-breaker, and accordingly wrote to him to that effect. The variety of court officer in Tripoli which we should call a Justice of the Peace and the Quorum sent to the Consul and demanded that he appear and answer to a charge of an assault and battery committed on the sailor. Whether Consul VIDAL was fined in default of appearance, or was constructively sent to some Tripolitan Randall's Island, does not appear. He did not go to court but he sent to Malta for protection by the Navy Department. The reader remembers that the Congress and Hartford were ordered to Tripoli, and a gallant officer of our Navy was empowered to demand satisfaction. The barbarians grumbled; and when the officers of the Congress landed, some of the dirty rabble followed them with insulting cries. The Pasha did not salute either ship, and so two new grievances were established on the arrival of the vessels, the insult from the crowd being the latest. The Pasha offered to punish the offenders who had called insulting names after the officers—if those gentlemen would find them. Of course, this generous concession was not accepted, and the Pasha tranquilly smoked his pipe and blessed the Prophet that he was not to be bothered with these Christian dogs.

But he was disturbed by the appearance of an ultimatum from Capt. ENGLISH, who demanded that the Hartford be saluted, that the Pasha apologize to the Consul and withdraw his offensive letter, that the sailor be punished, and the future safety of the Consul be guaranteed by the Government of Tripoli. The Pasha pleaded that the Government of Turkey was sovereign in Tripoli, and that it alone could decide as to the precedence of salutes. All the rest he agreed to, and, with much inward rage no doubt, he performed all that could then and there be exacted of him. It is very likely that this reluctant Moslem was given to understand that unless he came to terms the men-of-war would blow his contemptible little court into the air at short notice. At any rate, he knew that Christian fleets have done that very thing before now; so he gracefully laid down his pipe, waddled out of his divan, and paid homage to Capt. ENGLISH'S guns. It is possible that this queer dispute will result in our finding out officially that Tripoli is a dependence of Turkey, and that we must go to Constantinople when we have any complaint against the Pasha. There is really no occasion for the existence of Tripoli; but since it is on the map, we may as well know who owns it.

THE YACHTING SEASON.

The regatta of the New-York Yacht Club which is to be sailed next Thursday will virtually close the yachting season. It is barely possible that two or three yachts may be induced to try an ocean race to Cape May later in the Fall, and a few matches between rival yachts may yet take place. Most of the vessels, however, will go out of commission after this week, and the bays and rivers that have known their graceful spars during the past five months will know them no more until next Summer.

It must be confessed that the season just about to close has not been very satisfactory to those who are anxious to take pride in American yachtsmen. Several of the best heavy-weather boats of the fleet have been missed from the list of entries for regattas and cruises. The Sappho now flies the Italian flag, and hails from the port of Naples. The Enchantress has been for the past year on the other side of the Atlantic, and the Dreadnaught has not been heard from. The keel-boats have thus made an unusually poor show, while on the other hand the most noticeable addition which for some years has been made to the list of New-York yachts—the Mohawk—has probably given a new impulse to the building of centre-board vessels. That the centre-board is an admirable device when applied to small sail-boats intended for shallow waters no one denies. When, however, a foreign-built yacht comes here and sails half a dozen races with crack centre-board yachts, and we find as a result that while the foreigner has not started a rope or sprung a spar, her competitors are so strained as to be no longer seaworthy without undergoing extensive repairs, it is pretty clear that a fleet of centre-board yachts will not gain much reputation outside of the quiet waters of New-York Bay or the Sound. Of course, every addition of a new centre-board yacht to the fleet increases the influence of the advocates of that style of vessel, and is hence to be regretted by yachtsmen who prefer salt water to fresh. It is possible, however, that the leeway made by the Mohawk in her recent race with the Madeleine, in spite of her enormous centre-board, will have ultimately its effect in inducing yachtsmen to doubt whether a flat bottom and a centre-board are precisely the sort of things to be desired in a schooner of 200 tons and upward.

One other feature of the yachting season deserves notice. A race around Long Island was undertaken by two or three steam-yachts. Why the proprietors of these vessels took the trouble to carry them around the island is not very obvious, since they could have tested the power of their engines by tying the steamers to the dock and setting their machinery at work. The latter is undoubtedly the way in which steam-yacht regattas will be conducted when their owners really understand their vessels, and comprehend the sort of seamanship which steam-yachting demands.

That the members of the New-York Yacht Club have greatly enjoyed themselves during the recent Summer there is every reason to believe. A regatta in June, with a breeze so gentle as not to interfere with the comfort of lady guests, is a very pleasant affair. A cruise to Newport, with frequent balls and the perpetual discharge of the best quality of fire-works, constitutes a delightful though rather expensive amusement. But there are those who would like to see a little more interest in salt-water yachting on the part of our yachtsmen. If the fleet of the New-York Yacht Club consisted of vessels fit to make sea voyages, and were owned by men who sailed their own yachts, we could take much more pride in it than it is now possible to take. The club is a very pleasant association of very pleasant gentlemen, who amuse themselves in a very pleasant way. Unfortunately this is about all that can be said in its behalf, and the experience of the present season gives us no reason to look for any immediate improvement.

POLITICAL NOTES.

About a dozen men nominated the Prohibition State ticket in Wisconsin.

There is an anti-Masonic ticket for local offices in Cerro Gordo County, Iowa.

A case to test the constitutionality of the Michigan Liquor law has been brought in Detroit.

The Chicago Journal speaks of Hon. Joseph Medill as a candidate for Governor of Illinois, and it thinks the State could go further and fare worse.

Jefferson Davis refused to talk with a newspaper reporter in Kansas about the South or the Ohio election, for fear, as he said, of being misrepresented.

The Richmond (Va.) Whig says that all it asks to be assured of a soft-money plank in the national Democratic platform is a good majority for Gov. Allen in Ohio.

The Cincinnati Enquirer says that the New-York Democratic State Convention was captured, bound hand and foot, and carried into camp by the sharks of Wall street.

A telegram to the Cincinnati Gazette asserts that Senator Thurman refused to speak at Bucyrus, Ohio, if Cary was also to occupy the platform. So Cary's oration was postponed.

Speaking of a candidate in Kansas, the Leavenworth Commercial expresses the opinion that, if heaven is as far from Markham as that office, he has a long road before him.

Democratic Congressman elect Benjamin H. Hill, of Georgia, says he thinks that just at this time there ought to be but little, if any, public speaking on political questions, especially at the South.

It is said in Massachusetts that Gen. Butler remains quiet in the present State contest because he does not agree with the Republicans on the currency question nor with the Democrats on the conciliation question.

Referring to the President's suggestions to Gov. Ames, of Mississippi, the St. Louis Republican says: "We believe the whole country will say amen to this impartial and statesmanlike counsel. It is precisely what the case needs."

South Carolina Democrats of the better sort are appealing for a combination of honest men of all parties for retrenchment and reform, saying that should there be a straight party contest in their State the success of the corruptionists is inevitable.

It is a Boston paper that says that the jagged crack across the old right line of division between the two political parties which the currency issue has opened is widened to a yawning gulf by the fighting challenge of the New-York Democratic Convention.

The Republicans have a long list of speakers in Ohio. One issue of the Cincinnati Times announces speeches by forty-nine, including Senators Sherman, Morton, Boutwell, Dawes, and Windom, Gens. Hayes, Noyes, and Garfield, Hon. Stewart L. Woodford, and ex-Gov. James Pollock.

The Richmond (Va.) Enquirer tells the Democrats that they cannot expect unity in the party on the money question at present in the State contests, but "when it comes to the general election next year we must all be prepared to submit to the compromises then made by the National Convention."

The Knoxville (Tenn.) Press and Herald, a Democratic paper of influence in its section of the country, says: "It was, no doubt, the purpose of the managers at Syracuse to bully the Democratic Party of the country into a still further acquiescence in their dictation. But, unless all indications are deceptive, they will be sorely disappointed."

The San Francisco Alta gives the political composition of the new Legislature of California as follows:

	Senate.	House.	Joint Ballot.
Republicans	8	11	19
Independents	9	3	12
Democrats	23	65	88
Democratic majority	6	51	57

The Mobile Register does not seem to have a very exhalted opinion of that constitutional convention in Alabama, in which there is such a large preponderence of Democrats, for it says that nine-tenths of the propositions submitted by members of the convention might be suggestive to a General Assembly, but havn't the remotest relevancy to a State Constitution.

The address of the Banks party men in Boston says that they do not so much care to build up a third party as to "regenerate and eradicate" the old ones. Patriotism, they say, has been overcome by selfishness, and public-spirited men of honor shun public office while ravenous human birds of prey fight for them with desperation, and rob the people when once they are in, as they plundered each other while getting it.

The Republican State Committee of Pennsylvania held a meeting in Harrisburg, Friday. Nearly every county in the State was represented, and the Telegraph says that the members gave encouraging reports of the political situation in every portion of the Commonwealth. The committee was unanimous in the belief that all that is necessary to secure victory to the Republican Party in November is an active and harmonious campaign.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

RAPID TRANSIT.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

As the time is near at hand when the Commissioners for Rapid Transit are expected to render their verdict in the matter of the selection of a plan for the structure of a road, I trust I shall not be considered out of place in drawing their, as also the public, attention to several features in the plan which I have submitted for their approval, as in the vortex of suggestions and designs that have been presented before them they may not have had the opportunity of giving it the consideration that I believe I am entitled to, having spent a great deal of care and trouble, as also having laid out a considerable sum of money in preparing the plans, specifications, &c.

My first object when studying out the best means of constructing an elevated roadway was to introduce the strongest material in a design that would combine all the elements of lightness and strength, and at the same time be in keeping with the present progressive taste for that which is symmetrical and ornate.

On reference to my design (a colored perspective of which is now before the Commissioners, six feet by three feet,) it will be perceived that I have selected a simple and inexpensive style, constructed on the soundest principles in use at the present day, which will stand the severest tests that in reason the practical engineer may consider necessary. From observation and careful inquiry during the last five years, I have come to the conclusion that a double-track railway on each route will be amply sufficient to meet all the requirements of the traveling public, and that any increase over that number will not only be an incumbrance on the street but a useless expenditure of capital, as the double track will be able to supply all the traffic required. Many people living in the upper portion of the island and Westchester would no doubt like to have express trains to take them to their homes a few minutes earlier than if traveling by the ordinary train; yet I think that when steam takes the place of horse-cars the difference of time between the express and the regular trains will be so inconsiderable as not to warrant the expense of an extra line, which would only be used mornings and evenings, and that for a comparatively few travelers.

I am well aware that many designs have been sent to the committee similar in many respects to mine, some of them having the girders resting on two columns in the width, while mine rests on three columns, and to this part of the construction I would wish particularly to draw the attention of the Commissioners, as much of the stability of the structure will depend upon the security obtained from the cross girders, which have to do all the work in preventing lateral motion and oscillation generally. For example: Take the leaf of a table, say three feet square, and nail the legs to the leaf: when done it will be found that the table will be unsteady and liable to lurch from side to side; but secure pieces, say four or five inches deep, on edge, under the leaf, and extending from leg to leg, and the table becomes firm and all tendency to sway from side to side is obviated. Another great desideratum is the reduction in the length of the cross-beams, which would only be half that required were there only two columns, thus adding to the solidity of the road bed, a consideration of the greatest importance, as the tendency to deflection would be considerable when the combined weights of two trains, with their heavy locomotives, are brought to bear in juxtaposition to each other. I should also think that the horse-car companies would be benefited by my plan, as their tracks would be comparatively free from all those great lumbering wagons, the drivers of which seem to take a pleasure in obstructing the travel along the road.

In submitting my plan to the Commissioners, I wish it to be distinctly understood that the road I advocate is to be for the purpose of carrying heavy trains, similar to those on the Hudson River Line, as I consider them the most economical in the end; and should any such system as that in use on Greenwich street be adopted, the working expenses would be considerably more, there being a greater number of conductors, engineers, firemen, &c., required. The success of the Metropolitan Railroad of London ought to be sufficient evidence of the fact.

The platform, extending the whole length of the road on either ride, I consider a grand feature in a city railroad, for should any accident or stoppage from any cause occur, the passengers have the means of reaching the nearest station. It is also useful in frequent observation for the proper repair of the road, as also a protection for the workmen who may be engaged on such work. The safety rail introduced between the rails is of such vital importance to a structure of the kind as to need no further comment from me. In conclusion, I would recommend all the horse-car companies to alter their cars so that the ingress and egress should be at the end of the cars instead of at the sides, at at present. That could be done with very little expense, as only the dash-board would be required to be closed at the sides, the ends to have openings the same width as the doors, the driver placing a bar across the front one when driving. By this means passengers would be prevented from leaving the front platforms, and it would be much more convenient for those entering or leaving the cars in the rear.

WILLIAM KOHLER, Post Office Box, No. 613.
NEW-YORK, Saturday, Sept. 18, 1875.

A QUESTION OF TOWN BONDS.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

About a week since the Sussex Railroad Company hauled off their morning trains leaving this town for New-York. They had been running six trains daily to connect with trains on the Midland and Delaware and Lackawanna Railroads. The reasons for this movement on the part of the company are that the town of Newton at its last Spring election virtually repudiated the town bonds which had been given to aid the company in building the road.

In 1867 the Sussex Railroad Company commenced operations for the purpose of extending their railroad from Andover to Franklin Furnace, and thence to the New-York State line, thus forming part of the great prospective route from the Pennsylvania coal-fields to the New-England States. The survey passed by way of Sparta, leaving Newton, the shire town of Sussex County, out in the cold. The business men of Newton, seeing the advantages to be derived from the railroad passing through their town, called a meeting of the citizens at the Court-house on the evening of Jan. 10, 1868. On that evening a large crowd assembled, consisting of the wealth and business enterprise of the town. A proposition from the company that for $25,000 they would come to Newton was hailed with delight, and measures to give them that aid were taken. Judge Ryerson, Joseph Coult, Jacob L. Swayze, and some twenty-five others pledged themselves to the Sussex Railroad for that amount. At a subsequent meeting held at the same place, and which was largely attended, a unanimous vote was given that the pledge of $25,000 made by these gentlemen should be fulfilled as speedily as possible. As time could not be taken to ask the consent of the Legislature to bond the town, it was proposed that each tax-payer should voluntarily sign a bond agreeing to have his property taxed pro rata for the $25,000, and a committee to do the work was appointed. As that also would take considerable time, it was further proposed that the large property-holders present should sign a personal obligation for the amount so as to close the agreement. Twenty-eight or thirty public-spirited men stepped forward and signed an obligation of this character—every one with the understanding that he was but lending his credit to the town while the assessment was in progress. Ultimately the Legislature gave the town permission to bond for the required amount. While the road could have been built cheaper the other way, the company were willing to sacrifice that advantage for the sake of taking in so large a town as Newton. The company completed their road to Franklin Furnace, and the local trade was fully developed. Owing to business depression the road has never been completed to the State line. The company located their machine-shops here, and at the present time the town is largely dependent on the road for its prosperity, and must for years continue so. Considering these things, why has the town refused to pay the bonds and interest? The petition first sent to the Legislature asked that the town be allowed to pay $2,000 yearly with interest until paid at the Merchants' National Bank of this place. Mr. Swayze undertook to negotiate the bonds, and would have done so but this plan was changed without his knowledge by Mr. Blair, the President of the road, consenting to receive the bonds of the town and throw off a year's interest, provided both principal and interest be made payable in New-York. This was done that the bonds might be used to pay for iron that had been purchased. Mr. Swayze considered himself slighted and insulted and he who had been the first and foremost in the enterprise arrayed himself against it, and because the bonds were made payable in New-York declared their issuance illegal. The whole opposition to the payment of the bonds originated from and is kept alive by him.

A petition has been circulated during the past week which requests the Town Committee to settle with the railroad company. Both of the Newton papers, the Sussex Register and New-Jersey Herald, come out in favor of a settlement with the company by agreeing to pay the bonds with accrued interest, and now that the company have taken off the trains, thereby discommoding the entire public, the sentiment of the community has turned in their favor, and should the proposition be voted on to-morrow, would be carried by a large majority. Mr. Swayze in his fight with the company gained the sympathy of the community by talking corporation, while the people never reflected on the advantages they had derived from the road. It had been giving the town unusual facilitis. It had six trains daily for New-York, while the connections with the North, South, and West were all that could be desired. A fine new depot has been lately erected, and the concentration of the shops made the disbursements of the company amount to over three thousand dollars per month at this point. It is well known that with the most economical management the revenues of the road were little more than sufficient to keep it in order and pay operating expenses. Since the organization of the company, but three dividends have been declared—two of one per cent. each and one of two per cent. It is a short inland road which depends chiefly on a small agricultural district. The company fulfilled their part of the agreement and are entitled to their money. The town is the real aggressor, and until it reassume its obligations cannot expect the company to be mindful of its interests. It is said that the Town Committee will not heed the recommendations of the tax-payers, and that they intend to resist the payment of the bonds no matter what the sentiment of the people may be upon the subject. If they do they will deserve the severest condemnation, as they are simply the representatives of those whose property and interests are to be affected. If our present Town Committee will not act thus wisely, as requested, we have no doubt that some other committee will.

AMUSEMENTS.

BOOTH'S THEATRE.

Mr. George Belmore, an actor well known to London audiences, last evening made his first appearance in the United States. In choosing as a medium for his introduction to the American public, Boucicault's "Flying Scud," Mr. Belmore was no doubt actuated by a recollection of his success in England, as the original representative of Nat Gosling, the hero of this trashy drama. Under the circumstances, the decision was pardonable, and its result proved it to have been judicious so far as the actor was concerned. Mr. Belmore personates, in "The Flying Scud," a superannuated jockey, who, after a quarter of a century of retirement, rides a much-abused horse and wins the Derby. He sketches the man with much naturalness and detail. He never forgets the exigencies of the rôle—perhaps his performance would be a little less monotonous if he occasionally did so—and the vein of snile humor which pervades it, and now and then asserts itself by quaint methods of expression, makes the portrayal sympathetic where it would else be dreary. We are sure, therefore, that Mr. Belmore will please in other parts, though he appears to be in such bad health that anything like power need not be expected of him. Of the piece there is no occasion to write at length. "The Flying Scud," which was given at Wallack's, a few years ago, is one of Mr. Boucicault's flimsiest achievements. If ever anticipation of the spectacle of a race-course, illustrated by means of a canvas landscape and a hooting crowd, was potent enough to keep spectators in their seats for three long hours, while men and women move about and gabble without rhyme or reason, the promise of the picture will do nothing of the sort at present. The attractiveness of "The Flying Scud," as a show-play, is not undervalued at Booth's, for the eye feasts upon a dozen jockeys who are not unlike the demon-dancers in "The Black Crook;" upon two aspirants to the honors of the prize ring; upon a Punch and Judy exhibition, and upon a horse, whose entrance produces as lively an impression of surprise and gratification as would the sight of a trotting-match over the Canal Grande, in Venice. The male personages in the drama are in capable hands, Messrs. Dalton, Leclercq and Warde assuming the three of most importance, and a newcomer, Miss Agnes Mitchell by name, acts Lord Woodbie gracefully and effectively. The programme is to remain unchanged throughout the week.

BRIEF MENTION.

Mr. Max Maretzek sailed with Mme. Titiens aboard the Adriatic, and may be expected here on Saturday.

We have reason to believe that the regular season at Wallack's will be commenced with Tom Taylor's "Overland Route."

The New-York Oratorio Society commenced its rehearsals for the season yesterday evening. Henceforward the society will meet for practice in the rooms of the German Bank, at the corner of Fourteenth street and Fourth avenue.

The Garnellas, and Messrs. Schoolcraft and Coes are mentioned among the leading performers at the Theatre Comique this week, and the contest between the marksmen of the Skidmore and Mulligan Guards rages nightly amid general hilarity.

Mr. Bland Holt's interesting tableaux, called "Indian Life," were last evening exhibited at the Olympic Theatre. A new local extravaganza, entitled "The Yankee Shooteleers," was also added to the copious nightly programme, yesterday, and Mr. Pat Rooney was heard in a fresh song, supplied with the highly promising refrain, "O'Reilly, you're N. G."

"The Shaughraun" was brought out at Drury Lane Theatre, in London, on the evening of Sept. 4. Mr. Boucicault played The Shaughraun, Mrs. Boucicault Moya, and Mr. Shiel Barry Harvey Duff. Owing to an unaccountable delay in transmission, the Herald received and printed a "cablegram" in relation to the performance simultaneously with the receipt of the London critiques by mail.

POLITICAL MATTERS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—The full returns of the vote for Governor are given as follows: Irwin, Democrat, 61,525; Phelps, Republican, 30,922; Bidwell, Independent, 29,630.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The Republican Senatorial Convention for the Eighteenth District to-day nominated Anson Harden for Senator.

The case has been tenaciously contested throughout.

THE CRICKET TOURNAMENT.

GOOD PLAY BETWEEN THE BRITISH OFFICERS AND THE PHILADELPHIAS—THE LATTER MAKE A LARGE SCORE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, Sept. 20, 1875.

The cricket match between the Philadelphia and British officers' teams was opened punctually at noon to-day, Tom Hargreaves and Brewster being at the bat, Howden bowling from the lower and Singleton from the upper end. Each of the batsmen got a single, and then Tom sent Singleton to long leg for triplets. Brewster scored a one, Hargreaves drew Singleton for a pair, and then the batting partnership ran the score up fast, with successive twos and singles, so that when Brewster was finally caught by Cummings at the wicket, 197 runs were placed to the account of the Philadelphias, with only six wickets down, 50 runs having been made since the falling of the fifth. Dan Newhall went in next and sent Howden to long-field-on for a three hit, which would have acquired more had it not been beautifully fielded by Capt. Wallace. At this point Mr. A. A. Outerbridge rang his little bell, and some of the officers stood at attention and others at ease, while a photograph took a sun-picture of the gallant twelve on the field. After sustaining the infliction, Tom Hargreaves got a brace to square leg, and Dan Newhall made several good drives and leg hits for twos and threes. At length Tom Hargreaves, who had put 31 cleverly together, was caught at square leg by Taylor, off Singleton—seven wickets for 209 runs. Charlie Newhall followed, cut Singleton for 1, and also Howden in the next over. Then he sent Singleton to mid-field-on for a brace, and ultimately was caught off Singleton by Taylor, at mid-on, after making nine runs; 8 wickets for 221 runs. John Hargreaves went in next and was unluckily run out off the first ball delivered to him, Hon. Keith Turnour smashing his wicket with a splendidly thrown in ball. Magee supplied the place of the departed, and he aided Dan Newhall to run the score up to 230 before he lost his off stump to Singleton. Meade, the twelfth man on the American side, was unable to bat on account of a boil on his left hand, so his side waived the right to put in a substitute in the hope that he will be able to bowl to-morrow. The inning having thus terminated dinner was announced, and, after its digestion, the officers were again put in—the focus of a camera.

At 2:55 Capt. Wallace sent Lieuts. Browne and Tennant to the bat against the bowling of Charles Newhall at the lower and Dan Newhall at the upper end. Browne opened the inning by cutting the last ball of C. Newhall's first over for a single, and made the second run off Dan in the latter's second over. After three maidens had been bowled, Tennant nicked Dan to long leg for a pair; then Browne was caught by Tom Hargreaves at mid-off, from C. Newhall's bowling—it was a hot ball, and pluckily taken. Two runs for one wicket. Lieut. Turnour next assumed the willow wand. After a few singles had been made Tennant cut C. Newhall for a pair, Turnour got a couple of slashes to long leg, the first of which was well fielded by Brewster and the second badly muffed; in the next over, however, Brewster retrieved his fame by catching Tennant at mid-off, from Dan's bowling. Two wickets for 13 runs. Lieut. Cummings went to the vacated wicket, and soon got a square leg hit off C. Newhall for 4. Turnour then drove Dan under the reporters' stand for a similar amount, and after placing 10 runs to his account, was run out, owing to hesitancy. Three wickets for 31 runs. The bowling of both the Newhalls was excellent at this point, and most careful batting was needed, as it was well pitched and on the wicket all the time. Howden, who went in next, made a 4 to square leg, a pair, a drive for 3, and four singles before he was clean bowled by C. Newhall. Four wickets for 52 runs. Capt. Wallace, who succeeded Howden, nicked C. Newhall for a single, and then was caught in the next over by Charlie at short slip off Dan's bowling. Five wickets for 59 runs. Lieut. Farmer then joined Cummings, and brilliant play, with hard hitting and careful defense, became the order of the day. Charlie Newhall increased his pace, and Dan tried all the little artifices at his disposal to gain one of the gallant Lieutenant's wickets; but even the latter was unable to effect anything until Farmer had put 14 together in fine style, when Dan took his leg stump. Seven wickets for 89 runs. Capt. Taylor, who went in next, succumbed to the first ball Dan delivered him, and a "duck's egg," was registered against his name. Lieut. Davies took his place, and after scoring a single and hitting Charlie to square leg for 4 was caught by Dan Newhall off his own bowling; 97 runs for eight wickets. Lieut. Tallents went in next, but before another run was made George Newhall caught Cummings at the wicket off his brother Charlie's bowling. Lieut. Carpenter went next to the wicket, but the stumps were drawn before any more runs were made. About 3,000 people were present on the ground during the afternoon.

The game will be continued to-morrow. Subjoined is the score:

THE TURF.

FALL MEETING OF THE LOUISVILLE JOCKEY CLUB — THREE RACES — EGYPT, KING ALFONSO, AND KATIE PEARCE THE WINNERS.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 20.—The Fall races of the Louisville Jockey Club commence to-day, with flattering prospects for a brilliant meeting. In the first race, a dash of a mile and a quarter, for a purse of $250, six horses started, viz.: Egypt, Camargo, Marmion, Ortolan, Weatherby, and Redman. An excellent start was effected, Ortolan leading, with the others bunched. At the first quarter Marmion and Ortolan ran neck and neck, Egypt, Camargo, Weatherby, and Redman bunched close behind. At the half-mile Egypt pushed up for second place, Ortolan leading, Redman, Weatherby, and Camargo following in the order named. Thus they continued till coming down the homestretch, Egypt leading and won the race, Weatherby close behind, Marmion, Ortolan, Redman, and Camargo passing the string in the order named. Time—2:12¼.

The second race, the event of the day, the "St. Leger" for three-year olds; dash of two miles: $50, play or pay; club to add $1,000, of which $200 to second horse, was won by D. Swigert's b. c. King Alfonso, by imp. Phaeton, dam Capitola, by Vandal. The horses got off after nearly twenty attempts, George Graham leading Millionaire, next Voltigeur, third Ten Broeck, the favorite, Asterlito, Eulister, Verdigris, and King Alfonso grouped together and close behind. At the first quarter Mainsail flew to the front, with Millionaire close in the rear, followed by Voltigeur and the others grouped. When the horses flew past the half mile Millionaire was in front, but at the three quarters and home gave way to Ten Broeck, with Graham second. At the mile and a quarter Millionaire again struggled to first place, Verdigris also rushing up third, and but little behind Graham, who held second position. Thus they continued till they reached the mile and three-quarter post, when Ten Broeck led, Millionaire retiring among the bunch, Graham second, and Verdigris third. In these positions the horses passed the mile and three-quarters and were coming down the homestretch, when King Alfonso gallantly galloped forward, leaving Graham in second place and Verdigris third. Time—3:34½.

Up to this time Hazem had been the favorite in the third race, mile heats, purse $400, but Brakesman, half-brother of King Alfonso, now sold first choice. For this race five horses started, viz.: Katie Pearce, Port Leonard, Hazem, Brakesman, and Phyllis. They got off with Katie Pearce in the lead, which she held all the way round, winning in 1:44¾; Hazem second, Phyllis third, Brakesman fourth, and Port Leonard last. Katie Pearce also won the second heat; Brakesman second, Hazem third, Phyllis fourth, and Port Leonard last. Time—1:45½.

RIFLE PRACTICE AT CREEDMOOR.

SHOOTING BY THE FIFTH, EIGHTY-FOURTH, AND NINETY-SIXTH REGIMENTS—SOME OF THE BEST SCORES.

The left wings of the several regiments in the Second Brigade practiced in the third and second classes at Creedmoor yesterday. The Eleventh Regiment was the only command not represented, the latter having been excused to enable its members to attend a picnic. The total number present was 233 men and officers, who were distributed as follows: Fifth, 126 men, under command of Capt. Charles Koos, Capt. L. G. T. Bruer, Inspector of Rifle Practice; Eighty-fourth, 45 men, commanded by Capt. Gibson, Capt. Ackerman, Inspector of Rifle Practice; and Ninety-sixth, 62 men, under command of Lieut. Col. Hammer, Capt. Rodenburg, Inspector of Rifle Practice. The corps was commanded by Col. Andrew Stauf, of the Ninety-sixth Regiment, and Col. W. E. Van Wyck, late of the Sixth Regiment, was detailed Inspector of Rifle Practice. The cool, bracing air exhilarated the soldiers, and the result was exhibited in the record of scores, which were better than on previous occasions. During the intermission for rations a number of men from the Ninety-sixth Regiment climbed the fence behind the Seventh Regiment encampment, and helped themselves to fruit in a neighboring orchard. No attempt was made to prevent their lawlessness, and no arrests were made. Later in the day a Sergeant and a Corporal of the Fifth Regiment attempted a similar exploit, but were prevented by Superintendent Brower, who caused their arrest. The number who qualified in the third to shoot in the second class was sixty-five from the Fifth Regiment, thirty-one from the Eighty-fourth, and twenty-five from the Ninety-sixth. Following are the scores of those who qualified to shoot for the Marksman's badge:

BASE-BALL.

The Hoboken Club and the Athletics, of this City, played the first game of their championship series yesterday afternoon on the Elysian Fields, in Hoboken. Both clubs were in good trim, but the Hobokens soon distanced their opponents. The Athletics, in the sixth inning, made several changes in the positions of their men which proved beneficial, but they came too late to save them the game. Only eight innings were played, darkness preventing the ninth. The game was won by the Hoboken Club by a score of 20 to 13.

This afternoon there will be a game on the Capitoline Grounds between the Flyaways and Alaskas, both of this City. The Reliance and Fulton Clubs, both of Brooklyn, will also play there at the same time. The Hoboken Club will play with the Olympics, of Paterson, in Paterson, N. J., this afternoon. The Mutual Club, (amateur,) of this City, and the Mutuals, of Newark, will also play a game to-day in Newark, N. J. To-morrow the Staten Island Club and the Chelseas, of Brooklyn, will play at Staten Island.

There is soon to be a game of base-ball on the Union Grounds between two clubs from the West, composed entirely of young women. They are named the "Blonde" and "Brunette" Clubs, respectively, and played their first match Sept. 11, in Springfield, Ill., which was won by the Blondes, by a score of 42 to 38. Both clubs wear a handsome new uniform, which does not differ materially from those worn by ordinary clubs. The Brunettes wear white suits trimmed with blue. The Blondes wear blue suits faced with white. They also have light leather gloves, and use a lighter ball than that required by the rules. The bases and field are a trifle over half the ordinary field, the bases being only 50 feet apart. These clubs also played in Decatur, Ill., on Sept. 13. The arrangements for the game on the Union Grounds are not yet fully completed, but it will probably take place in about two weeks.

Two games of base-ball were played at Cincinnati yesterday, and resulted as follows: The Hartfords beat the Stars by a score of 8 to 3, and the Red Stockings, of Cincinnati, were defeated by the Philadelphias, of Philadelphia, by a score of 5 to 6.

ROWING ON THE HARLEM.

An interesting single-scull race took place on the Harlem River yesterday afternoon between James McMasters, of Brooklyn, and Richard Hammond, of this City. They rowed two miles, for $200 a side. A large crowd assembled to witness the race, and there was a good deal of betting, McMasters being the favorite at fifty to forty. The course was from the powder schooner near the railroad bridge to the steam-boat dock near High Bridge. At 3 P. M. the men launched their boats, and Hammond, having won the toss, took his position on the New-York shore. McMasters took the lead, rowing thirty-six strokes per minute. Hammond rowed a long, steady stroke, thirty-eight per minute. The race was well contested, and McMasters passed the New-York Athletic Club grounds four lengths ahead of Hammond. The latter then began to increase his speed, and gradually lessened the gap. At McComb's Dam Bridge McMasters was still leading, but he had dropped to thirty-four strokes per minute. At this point the race was very exciting. Hammond began to drive his boat through the water at a terrific pace, rowing forty strokes per minute. He gradually gained on McMasters, in spite of the strenuous efforts of the latter to keep the lead and finally drew up with McMasters, and they rowed side by side for 200 yards. Hammond's boat then showed in front, and he kept the lead to the finish, crossing the line two lengths ahead of McMasters. Time, 18m. 24¾s.

New-Haven papers are now denying that Ann Farley, of New-Haven, who had her scalp torn off two years ago, and replaced by pieces of skin taken from several other persons, enjoys a fine head of hair. They say that though the scalp is restored, her head is as innocent of hair as a billiard ball.

Wells, Fargo & Co. have presented to Col. A. W. Von Schmidt a valuable gold watch and chain as a tribute to his gallantry in successfully resisting, at the peril of his life, the demands of highwaymen for their treasure-box on the Quincy stage, near Live Yankee Ranch, California, Aug. 17, 1875. The driver of the stage has also been given a watch and chain.

Two young Shakers eloped in Kentucky the other day and attempted to get married, but as the would-be bride was not of marriageable age according to the laws of the State, and had no parents living or guardian to consent, the license was refused. But they hied them across the Ohio River, where such little provoking formalities are not requisite, and were made one.

In a little speech at the reception in Auburn last week, Gen. Joe Hooker said: "Our country still lives, and will when most other countries are forgotten. The South did not know the work they had undertaken, and indeed the world does not yet know our people, but if we ever get into a war with any of the nations of the world they will know us then. I know no country but this, and never want to know any other."

A man laboring under a severe attack of delirium tremens, and claiming to be homeless, friendless, and moneyless, and to have walked all the way from Indianapolis, asked for a bed in a station-house at Cincinnati on Saturday night. He told the attendants that he was Major Gen. William H. Wheeler, of the late Confederate Army, on his way to his old home and birth-place in Culpepper Courthouse, Virginia, where he wanted to die. He was taken to the hospital.

The Springfield, Mass., Republican records this: Gen. Washington now and then took notice of singular facts in natural history. Two years before his death, old Col. Perkins, of Boston, then a young gentleman, visited him at Mount Vernon. As he was sitting with young Perkins on the veranda which overlooked the Potomac, a toad hopped along the ground near them, "which led him to ask me," says Col. Perkins, "if I had ever observed the reptile swallow a fire-fly. Upon my answering in the negative, he told me that he had, and that from the thinness of the skin of the toad, he had seen the light of the fire-fly after it had been swallowed. This was a new and to me a surprising fact in natural history."

LATTER-DAY MIRACLES.

THE SUPPOSED CURE OF REV. S. H. PLATT—HE IS ALLEGED NEVER TO HAVE BEEN LAME.

In acceptance of an invitation Rev. James M. Buckley, of Brooklyn, read yesterday, before the Methodist ministers, a paper on "Supposed Miracles," a subject suggested by an alleged miraculous cure of Rev. Smith H. Platt, who recently published a pamphlet concerning it. The board room in the Book Concern building, in which the meeting was held, was crowded by the preachers of New-York and its vicinity, who manifested much interest in the remarks of the speaker, and evinced their concurrence in his views by frequent applause. The reverend gentleman asserted, in his introductory remarks, that, although miracles had been undoubtedly wrought in the earliest eras of the world, and frequently during Christ's life, they had ceased after the third century of Christianity. He then proceeded to show by argument and reasoning that they were not intended to be wrought after the Christian Church was established, after Christ had worked the greatest of moral miracles on the cross, when, chaffed and blasphemed at by the thief, he exclaimed, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." Human nature, as a whole, at the present time could not be trusted with such powers; their exercise would work ruin and desolation oftener than good. Far superior to those powers was a filling of the soul with God and a true trustfulness in His will and mercy. The speaker next analyzed the passages of the Scriptures bearing on the subject, and alluded at length to the fact that the best men in the Church—missionaries and men who had been most blessed in great revival work, were never known to have performed miracles or never pretended to have such powers. Many people at the present time were wont to pray with a positive expectation that a wonderful dispensation of Providence would immediately follow in answer, such as a miraculous curing of a sick person or the destroying of some evil affecting the petitioner. If, said the speaker, we believe that our prayers saved the sick, it showed a commendable strength of faith, but it would be better to pray in the humble, trusting spirit conveyed in the words "Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me; nevertheless, let not my will be done but thine." Ventriloquism, magic, and the practices of Spiritualistic mediums were mere processes of imitation, the speaker said, which could be and are learned from simple exposition books that could be purchased of any book publisher. In speaking of the wonderful cures which are alleged to be produced by superhuman agencies, Mr. Buckley remarked that such instances of healing were in all cases the plain operation of very common laws of nature. He related numerous incidents of the kind in which he had been concerned, when he effected little less than remarkable cures by simply endeavoring to concentrate the senses of the patient in some peculiar performance or formula, and gaining his or her entire confidence in the efficacy of the proceedings. He next discussed the case of Rev. Mr. Platt, reading extracts from the latter's pamphlet, and severely criticising the assertions therein contained. He had been intimately acquainted with the author for a number of years, and could recollect that on several occasions during the last six or seven years Mr. Platt, while under a high state of excitement while preaching, entirely neglected his cane, and walked up and down the platform without the slightest difficulty. It was well that he had been frank in his statements, or much mischief might have been done to the cause of Christianity. Following an account of the manner in which the "lameness" had been cured by the prayerful interposition and the rubbing of his knees by the fanatical woman at Ocean Grove, he recounts how he afterward was frequently siezed with pains and swelling of the nether limbs after walking any distance without his crutch. Aside from the belief of the speaker that Mr. Platt had never been lame, these admissions about returning pains confirmed the theory that the concentration of his senses in the extraordinary performances of the woman produced a temporary forgetfulness of his supposed affliction.

FOREIGN NOTES.

A sum of £75,000 is about to be spent in mounting the fortress of Gibraltar with 38-ton guns.

The Paris Liberté discussing the Eastern question says that England will be the arbiter in any conflicts, and the only sure and possible ally of France.

A warder in one of the English prisons has been sent to jail for four months for allowing letters and provisions to be sent to one of the prisoners in his charge.

A great seizure of Bonapartist photographs and brochures is reported to have been made near Dunkirk. They were being passed in as Australian mutton and Kangaroo-tail soup.

The yearly Peter's pence collection in Dublin on a recent Sunday amounted to nearly three thousand pounds, which the Freeman's Journal regards as proof of the complete "sympathy of the Dublin public with the Holy Father."

In the course of an address lately delivered by Cardinal Manning in Ireland, he stated his belief that nothing but the intervention of the "Blessed and Immaculate Mother" saved France from destruction at the hands of the Germans.

During the late epidemic of scarlet fever in London, only four cases occurred in registered common lodging-houses, although these are occupied by 27,000 persons, most of whom are of the poorest class. Here is a lesson for our Board of Health.

The railways in India seem to run to bridges. A single English firm has built no less than 16,000 iron bridges for the Bombay, Baroda and Central India and Indian Railways. The last one constructed and sent out is to have an entire length of 9,088 feet.

Two expeditions from London to New-Guinea are now being projected. One of them contemplates the establishment of a settlement on the eastern coast of the island. It is generally believed that the unclaimed portion of the island will shortly be annexed to the British Empire.

Two Sisters of the Sacred Heart have been apprehended at Derby for begging. They had in their possession a circular, stating that they had the approval of Cardinal Manning and the Roman Catholic Bishop of Nottingham. They were discharged on undertaking to leave the town.

A London correspondent of a Liverpool paper tells of another infliction from which the people of London are suffering. All the barrel organs under the care of the Italian immigrants have been supplied with Moody and Sankey's hymn tunes, which they are now grinding out at every street corner.

It was stated in the Pall Mall Gazette the other day that at a recent sale which took place at Halifax the auctioneer blushed. This is the first known instance of such a phenomenon. The circumstances were, however, considered sufficient to account for it. The man was selling a few goods in distraint for the Vicar's rate.

The latest news from the Cape of Good Hope shows that the federation scheme is making progress. Resolutions in favor of the conference of the provinces continue to be passed, and a great popular meeting is shortly to be held to consider the Earl of Carnarvon's dispatch and the proposed federation.

Two urns with human remains have been discovered at St. Albans. The almost entire absence of ornamentation renders it somewhat difficult to say whether they are British or Saxon, although the balance of evidence is in favor of their being British, in which case the date of their construction must be before A. D. 449.

The London Times announces that the Greek Government, mindful of the services of Lord Byron to Greece, and desirous of seeing them commemorated, has offered to supply whatever quantity of Pentelic marble the committee may require for the monument free of all cost, and that the expenses of its transit will be paid out of the Greek Exchequer. The Times believes that a site on the Thames Embankment will be offered to the committee.

The people of Nicaragua are beginning to calculate the loss which the Catholic Church imposes on them. There are eighty-two feast days set down, and, says a local writer, this, calculating the laborers in Nicaragua at 15,000 at thirty cents a day average, gives an annual loss of $3,600,000. To this sum has to be added the loss to agriculture to the crops, &c., which cannot fail to make the loss amount to five or six millions, besides the sickness, killed and wounded, which generally attend such feast days.

It has been said that Frenchmen are most easily distinguished by their ignorance of geography. Apropos of this, a Paris paper, alluding to the insurrection in the East, remarks: "More than one Parisian is totally ignorant of what Herzegovina is. Some fancy that it is a woman who dances at the opera, and is gaining great success; others think that it is a new kind of piano, to which its inventor, M. Herz, has given his name. Others who hear that the Herzegovina is in a blaze, suppose that it refers to a great lucifer factory worked by the new régime." Then follows an explanation of what Herzegovina really is.

The Fanfulla of Rome has lately published a minute description of the habits and manners of the Pope. In this interesting contribution to natural history we are informed that "by 9 o'clock the Pope is always to be found sitting in his arm-chair under his canopy, before a large writing-table, on which stands a crucifix and an Immaculate Conception, besides papers and an ink-stand." Upon this Punch remarks: "Who can conceive a conception standing on a table? Such an object, so situated, appears about as imaginable as a hypothesis on the mantelshelf or an assumption in the grate. The mind might as well try to form a notion of a chimera buzzing in a vacuum, eating its second intentions."

From recent returns it appears that there are in Ireland 4,150,000 Roman Catholics, 668,000 members of the Anglican Church, 497,000 Presbyterians, 43,000 Methodists, 1,538 Covenanters, 2,600 Brethren and Christian Brethren, of whom, strange to say, the majority are women; 40 Non-sectarians, 44 "Christian Israelites," 33 Mormons, 10 Latter Day Saints, 6 Exclusive Brethren, 5 Humanitarians, 10 Darbyites, 9 Puseyites, 6 Walkerites, 5 Christadelphians, 5 Morrisonians, 60 Free-thinkers, 8 Secularists, 16 Deists, 6 Theists, and 1 Atheist. There is 1 disciple of Positivism, 1 Buddhist, 1 Mussulman, 1 Confucian, and 1 "Pagan;" four men and a woman are set down as "undetermined" or "undecided" and there is a residuum of about 1,050 men and women whose form of religion is "unspecified."

A sad story comes from France. During the war with Germany a farmer named Roullon, living at Baume-le-Rollande, was brutally shot down by the Germans in the presence of his wife and children. The war over, the widow sold the ruins of her farm and went to Paris, where she worked for the support of her family. At length these were old enough to be placed out at service. But the poor woman could never forget the terrible loss of her husband and the ruin of her family, and the other day she committed suicide by inhaling the fumes of a charcoal fire. On the table was found the following letter: "The remembrance of the past is too much for me; I cannot support it. Now that my children are old enough to earn their own living, I can die in peace and join my dear husband. Adieu!"

At Musselburgh, in Scotland, they have, according to the Glasgow Herald, a magistrate of most genial temperament. On a recent occasion a woman named Shiels, who is a notorious scold, being charged with annoying her neighbors, Bailie Brown inquired if her husband was alive. When answered in the affirmative, he held up his hands and ejaculated, "Weel, I pity him!" In imposing a small fine on another old offender, the bailie remarked, apologetically, "The prisoner is ower auld for me to try admonition wi'." A young man who was charged with creating a disturbance having urged on his behalf that he had himself been "pitched out of a public house," the bailie retorted, "Yes, and then got yoursel' pitched into the Police office. Weel, just pitch doon 7s. 6d." A big hulking fellow was next charged with being disorderly. "Are ye a stranger, man?" inquired the bailie. "Na, Bailie," replied the prisoner. "Weel," observed the bailie, "ye micht hae been better bred than stan' thore wi' yer hawns in yer pooches; tak' them oot, ye lazy fellow." This homely style of dispensing justice is, it is stated, evidently appreciated by large and admiring audiences.

The following curious domestic drama, the dramatis personæ of which are discreetly veiled by impossible initials, is described by the Droit. A banker in a fashionable quarter of Paris decided, at his wife's request, upon taking her for a trip to London, and on the day before the journey obtained 5,000 francs from his Cashier for the necessary expenses. Next morning, when it was time to start, the lady became alarmed at the fatigue of the expedition, and induced her husband to give it up. He, accordingly, hastened to restore the notes he had drawn to the Cashier; but on opening the case in which he had placed them, found he had but two 1,000 franc notes instead of five. He had three servants, one of whom, the cook, had a drunken and needy husband. His suspicions, therefore, rested on her, and he accused her of the theft. After defending herself for a time in vain, she exclaimed that the thief should soon be discovered, and, after placing a crucifix on the table, laid her hand upon it and swore that she was not guilty. The two other servants took the same oath. "Now, Madame," said the cook dryly, addressing her mistress, "it is your turn." The lady, surprised at so much insolence, left the room. Her husband, now in a violent passion, was about to call the Police to arrest his maid-servant, when Madame returned with the three 1,000-franc notes, which she had found concealed in the drawing-room curtains. Monsieur still believes that he was robbed by one of his servants.

THE ODD-FELLOWS IN COUNCIL.

THE REPORTS OF THE GRAND OFFICERS—NEW ENCAMPMENTS FORMED — THE GRAND SECRETARY'S REPORT.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Monday, Sept. 20, 1875.

The Grand Lodge of the United States, I. O. O. F., assembled in annual communication in this city this morning, the grand officers and a quorum of representatives from the several jurisdictions being present. The grand officers' annual reports were submitted and duly referred. The Grand Sire, Hon. M. J. Durham, of Kentucky, presented his address in a concise form. It furnishes information of the order abroad, showing continued prosperity in the German Empire. Lodges are being instituted at all important points in the Republic of Switzerland. A Grand Lodge has been established, with five subordinate lodges under its jurisdiction, in Peru and Chili. The order is rapidly increasing in the Sandwich Islands, and in Australia there has been no material change during the year. The Grand Sire has appointed R. H. Morrison, of Michigan, Special Deputy to establish the order in the United Kingdom of Great Britain. Warrants were issued for Grand Encampments in Oregon and Nevada, and for subordinate encampments in Montreal, Quebec, Olympia, Washington Territory; Yankton, Dakota Territory; Elk Point, Dakota Territory, and Key West, Fla.; also for subordinate lodges in Caddo, Indian Territory; three in Valparaiso, South America, and Winnipeg, Canada, and for Provincial Degree Lodge, Montreal, Quebec, all under the immediate jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of the United States.

Gen. James L. Ridgely, the veteran Grand Secretary, submitted an elaborate and comprehensive report, showing the order to be in a prosperous condition throughout the general jurisdiction. Relative to New-York he remarks: "An increase of forty-two lodges and 2,800 members is exhibited in the Grand Lodge returns, and two encampments and ninety-five members in the Grand Encampment report." In regard to lodges working in the degree of Rebekah he observes: "I regret to say that the reports received continue to be confused and unsatisfactory. Until a proper system of administration be secured in this branch of the order, further extension of jurisdiction and enlargement of powers, which from time to time is asked for, would appear to be unwise." The Grand Secretary notes the decease of several prominent Odd Fellows during the last year: B. W. Dennis, P. G. M. and P. G. Representative, of Michigan; Dr. John F. Morse, P. G. M. and P. G. Representative, of California; Willard Richardson, P. G. M. and P. G. Representative, of Texas; and Rev. James D. McCabe, P. G. Representative, of Virginia. Application has been received from the subordinates of Dakota for a Grand Lodge.

The report presents the following statistics of the order:

A REMARKABLE WILL CASE.

Surrogate Coffin, of Westchester County, delivered an opinion yesterday in the matter of an application of the Administrator of the late John T. Wright, to reopen the case and permit the production of evidence showing that the next of kin were paid various sums on account of their shares, amounting in the aggregate to $114,434 05. After stating that he had carefully examined the authorities on the matter, and had been unable to find a precedent justifying the granting of such an application, he calls attention to the fact that the testimony produced formerly included no account of such payments, but only the contrary, a distinct declaration that no money had been paid to next of kin. "When," he adds, "the facts of these payments to the next of kin was disclosed to me shortly after the decision of the case, my astonishment was great, and whatever my own views or feelings in regard to the course pursued might be, I supposed I had the power, as a court endowed with a certain degree of equitable jurisdiction, to open the case and receive the evidence of these payments, and was then disposed to do so. At the same time I further proposed to begin the matter de novo, and permit the contestants to file such further objections as they might desire. They now suggest that they have further evidence which satisfies them that if the decree be entered strictly in accordance with the decision already made, the administrator will still have the advantage. But since I have examined the cases cited, and finding as facts that no fraud, error, or mistake has been committed, I am satisfied my power in the matter is spent, and I must, therefore, deny the application for a rehearing."

ANTI-TAMMANY DEMOCRACY.

The Executive Committee of the Democratic County Committee (Anti-Tammany) held a special meeting last night at the Everett House, there being a full attendance. Among the gentlemen present were ex-Surrogate Tucker, Thomas J. Creamer, James O'Brien, Joseph Blumenthal, Dennis Burns, and ex-Assistant Alderman Healy. Emanuel B. Hart occupied the chair and the meeting was private. The committee decided to call a meeting of the General Committee, to be held at Irving Hall to-morrow evening, for the purpose of perfecting the organization and adopting by-laws. Among the business transacted was the hearing of evidence and argument in the matter of the two delegations from the Thirteenth Assembly District, headed by Messrs. Hart and Freedman respectively, and both claiming seats in the General Committee. No result was reached, the matter being finally referred to a Committee on Contested Seats, of which John Hardy is Chairman. The committee will consider the subject of a general combination of all the Anti-Tammany elements at its next meeting.

THE NEW BILLIARD-PLAYER.

APPEARANCE OF M. ADRIEN IZAR, THE FRENCH FINGER-PLAYER—A MARVELOUS EXHIBITION OF SKILL.

The billiard saloon of Mr. Albert Garnier, of No. 1,292 Broadway, was crowded with billiard amateurs last night, M. Adrien Izar, the famous French finger-player, making his first public appearance in this country. The finger-play game is little known here, there being only two players of any prominence in this City—M. A. P. Rudolphe and Mr. T. Dolan, an amateur. The game consists in the propulsion by the player of the ball by means of twisting it between the thumb and second finger. The player has the privilege, before making a stroke, of placing his play ball in any position he may desire. M. Izar has for some years been recognized, in France and England, as the champion of this peculiar game. He is a man of fine appearance, is about fifty years old, and was born in the City of Cette, Province of Languedoc, France. At an early age he went to reside in Paris, where he learned the game he has since become such a master of. During the past five years he has resided in England, where some of his best play has been done. Among his big scores in England he made, at Bury, 510 in seven minutes; at Whitehaven, 610 in nine minutes; at Yeovil, 38, unfinished, in eight minutes; at Barrow-in-Furniss, 662 in nine minutes; at Gloucester, 744 in nine and one-half minutes; at Bristol, 859 in eleven and one-half minutes; at Torquay, 1,045 in fourteen and one-half minutes; at Weymouth, 1,480 in nineteen minutes, and at London, 2,024 caroms in a single break. M. Izar was introduced to his first American audience last night by Mr. Garnier, who announced that M. Izar would play Mr. Joseph Dion a game of 100 points (three ball.) Dion, who, with his brother Cyrille, has just returned from Europe, met with a cordial reception. The lead was won by Dion, who made 9. M. Izar then took his ball in hand, and with a neat three-cushion gathering shot left the balls in an easy scoring position, from which he forced them into the corner, and ran 21, slipping up on a misjudgment of cushion-force. Dion put in a run of 7, and Mr. Izar beginning with a very fine three-quarter follow shot, rapidly accumulated 106, failing on a fancy round-the-table carom. In this run he exhibited the strength of his game, perfect judgment of his distance and force, and complete command over that imperatively necessary possession of a finger-player—reverse side. He plays with exceeding rapidity, and almost unerring accuracy. In an exhibition game, and considering the courtesy due from him to the cue player, it is presumable that he did not show his full strength. After this run of M. Izar, Dion jokingly took up his ball and placed it an easy position amid the laughter of the audience. He made 4, and Mr. Izar following made 3, Dion then missed, and Mr. Izar also missed. Dion followed with another miss, and Mr. Izar ran 100 points, keeping the balls in the corner all the time. Another miss on the part of Dion and Mr. Izar ran the game out, the audience applauding vehemently. M. Garnier then gave an exhibition of fancy and massé shots with the cue, some of which were very fine. M. Izar closed the exhibition with a display of fancy finger shots. He began with a few round-the-table shots of wonderful delicacy and accuracy. These were followed by draws and massés, and the throwing of the play ball up the entire length of the table, round a hat, making a carom on two balls in the corner. Then came the twisting of the ball through sixteen glasses and two decanters, arranged in a double curve half way up the table, and the making of a carom against two balls placed near the far side cushion. The most clever shot of the evening was the spinning of a ball along the woodwork of the table, its entire length caroming on two balls well in position at the further end. To summarize M. Izar's playing, it may be said that he is a wonderfully strong finger player, but it is a question whether either M. Rudolphe or Mr. Dolan cannot equal, if not excel him, and in all probability this question will be decided by a public contest in a few days.

THE HORSE DISEASE.

NO FEARS OF A RETURN OF THE EPIZOOTIC ENTERTAINED—THE PRESENT DISEASE YIELDS READILY TO TREATMENT.

Within the past few days a mysterious complaint has attacked the horses in this City and Brooklyn. Following upon the sudden change of the weather it has been chiefly remarkable for the great rapidity with which it has spread. Similar in this respect to the celebrated epizootic which swept over the country three years ago, it was feared that this disease was upon the eve of renewing its destructive ravages. Experienced veterinary surgeons, however, say that the symptoms of the disease now prevailing are similar in but few respects. As the disease first attacked the horses of the various car companies of the City, a TIMES reporter yesterday called upon the different Superintendents of the prominent railroad stables to learn its nature and progress. Mr. Wallace, Superintendent of the Ninth Avenue Road, a gentleman who has had thirty-two years' experience in the superintendence of horses, stated that the complaint first manifested itself on Tuesday or Wednesday last. Its appearance was sudden and its progress one of great rapidity. The horses first began to sneeze and cough occasionally, but not enough to cause any uneasiness. He, however, immediately gave orders to have the affected animals placed in the hospital. On Saturday night every horse in the stable was more or less affected with a cough, which, in some cases, was very severe and frequent. Mustard poultices were immediately applied to their heads and chests, and every possible precaution taken to relieve them. This treatment proved so effective that the horses were enabled to resume their work without any injury. Mr. Wallace thought that the prevalence of the complaint was attributable to the sudden change of the weather. The animals ate their food the same as ever, and he had no doubt would be perfectly recovered as soon as the weather grew milder. He thought that the complaint was merely a combination of cold and slight inflammation of the bronchial tubes. The proprietors of many of the private stables who were called upon also said that the horses have been more or less affected with cold and sore throat. Medical care has been summoned in each case, and marked improvement had followed. Mr. Clark, the Superintendent of the Brooklyn City Railroad Company, stated that of all the horses on the eleven lines under the superintendence of the company, about 1,000 had been attacked, but he did not regard the complaint as serious, from the fact that the animals took their food as usual, and evinced no inability to accomplish their work. The complaint, whatever it was, yielded readily to proper treatment.

Besides those mentioned above, a number of other railroad stables were visited, and the horses were found to have also been affected in the same manner. In all of them the disease had yielded readily to treatment, and no ill effects were apprehended.

DEATH OF A VETERAN.

Zenas Skidmore, a veteran of the War of 1812, died on Sunday at the residence of his son, No. 259 Madison street, in the eighty-fourth year of his age. He was born at Fairfield, Conn., and removed to this City in his boyhood. During the War of 1812 he was stationed at the old Castle Garden Fort. Mr. Skidmore, during his long life, was strictly temperate, never having drank a glass of intoxicating liquor. He will be buried to-day from his late residence at 2 P. M.

ARREST OF GEORGE WILKES.

On the application of Mr. Latham, of the Union Square Theatre, Judge Bixby granted a warrant yesterday afternoon for the arrest of George Wilkes, of the Spirit of the Times, on a charge of libel. Wilkes was arrested last evening at Delmonico's, but he was subsequently allowed to go on his own recognizance, on promising to appear in court this morning to answer the charge.

THE NEW-JERSEY STATE FAIR.

The seventeenth annual exhibition of the New-Jersey State Agricultural Society opened at Waverly yesterday. The day was devoted to receiving and arranging the different objects of interest presented for exhibition, and in making preparations for the variously-arranged programme of the following days. Gen. Grant will be at the fair to-morrow about 2 o'clock. The President arrived in Elizabeth last night as the guest of his brother-in-law Corbin. At noon he will be the guest of Hon. Amos Clark, of Elizabeth, who will give a banquet in his honor. Wednesday will be devoted to horse-racing on the course. The tournament will take place on Thursday. Major L. D. Sheaffer, of Chili, will enter the tournament as the Knight of Chili. On Friday, the closing day, a balloon ascension will take place, and Hon. G. M. Robeson will deliver an address.

REVERDY JOHNSON ON ANDREW JOHNSON.

In a letter expressing his regret at his inability to be present at the Andrew Johnson memorial meeting in Nashville, Hon. Reverdy Johnson says: "No man laments more than I do the death of Mr. Johnson. My acquaintance with him during the time he held the Presidential office was intimate. As a member of the Senate of the United States it was my duty to study his official character and conduct carefully, and this I did. And notwithstanding the anathemas that were hurled at him, I am satisfied that a more conscientious man or one more devoted to the interest and honor of his country never occupied the office. His state papers, too, evinced a high order of ability. They were not only strong in argument but excellent in style. The only one of which this cannot be said is the veto message, understood to have been prepared jointly by Secretaries Seward and Stanton in relation to civil offices. All the rest I know were from his own pen, and are models of perfection. His conduct during the insane attempt at his impeachment was marked by great firmness—a firmness that a conviction he had acted throughout from patriotic motives and for the good of the country was calculated to inspire."

ONE OF THE SYMPTOMS OF THE PRESence of Worms in the child's system is a flush on one cheek. When the parent believes that her child is thus troubled, she should buy a box of BROWN'S VERMIFUGE COMFITS or Worm Lozenges, and give them at once. They will drive out the worms if they are there.

FOR INDIGESTION, NOTHING IS BETter than BROWN'S HOUSEHOLD PANACEA and Family Liniment. It brings up the wind from the stomach, removes the terrible balling which is experienced by the sufferers, and strengthens the stomach, without implanting an appetite for strong drinks.

LOCAL MISCELLANY.

AN INSURANCE CONVENTION.

ADDRESS BY PRESIDENT CHAPMAN—HE MAKES IMPORTANT SUGGESTIONS—ELECTION OF AN EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The annual Convention of Insurance Superintendents and Commissioners was held yesterday at No. 156 Broadway. The attendance was not large, but at the session to-day a fair representation of insurance men is expected. Orlow W. Chapman, Insurance Commissioner of this State, presided, and among the Commissioners present were Oliver Pillsbury, of New-Hampshire, who acted as Secretary; Samuel H. Row, of Michigan; Gustavus W. Smith, of Kentucky; Orrin J. Welsh, of Kansas; J. M. Foster, of Pennsylvania, and Samuel H. Rhodes, of Massachusetts. The meeting having been called to order, the Chairman read his address, in which he said they should be slow to make innovations, and before making radical changes they should be sure of their wisdom, and then act fearlessly and promptly. He advocated harmony, uniformity, and reciprocity between the various State Insurance Departments, consistent with safety and security for policy-holders. As a convention of insurance officials they were standing, as it were, between a thousand million of dollars on the one hand, and half as many scattered risks on the other; between aggregate capital, which is power, and segregated weakness. In a sense they were the representatives and guardians of the insured. They should, as far as possible, take such action as would prevent the creation and existence in the several States of fraudulent companies. No insurance official should allow one such to be created in his State. He suggested that honest companies, though small, should be encouraged and sustained in every way possible, always, however, consistent with safety to the insured. Companies might be so small as to be insecure, and they might be so large as to become monopolies. It was for them to adopt such measures as would protect the people from the weakness of the one and the strength of the other. Every failure of an insurance company was a public calamity. It was their duty, as far as possible, to protect the people against such calamity. They could, he said, effectually guard against fraudulent companies, or the unwise expansion of small companies, if every official did his duty, but not otherwise. The convention should do all in its power to weed out fraudulent companies, and to encourage and uphold young and small companies, so far as it could be done consistently with safety to the insured. The chief value of their yearly gatherings was not so much in their public discussions as in their private conferences, informally and in committees. It was there that the real work was done. It was, he said, in the mutual exchange of views, of plans, and of methods, that the greatest good was derived. From general conferences came general information, and out of various methods of action the best would naturally be selected and generally followed. Personal and intimate knowledge of each other, such as could only be obtained in these private and confidential conferences, enabled them to understand the secrets of each other's official acts, and to read between the lines the real signification of communications, either private or official. He was in favor of reciprocity, but thought such reciprocity would not be expedient now. The time might come, however, when the increased number of insurance departments would necessitate some movement in this direction, in the very interest of that safety which they all sought. It was time, he said, to begin to turn their attention in this direction. In conclusion, he said the indications were that they should have a larger attendance of insurance officials than at any session since the first.

The next business transacted was the election of an Executive Committee, and a ballot having been taken, the following named gentlemen were elected: Samuel H. Rhodes, Massachusetts; G. W. Smith, Kentucky; John M. Foster, Pennsylvania; Orrin J. Welsh, Kansas, and John W. Stedman, Connecticut.

Some routine business, of no public importance, was next transacted, after which the convention adjourned until this morning at 11:30 o'clock.

ERIE'S PROSPECTS.

MEETING OF DISSATISFIED ERIE BONDHOLDERS—RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

A secret meeting, purporting to be composed of dissatisfied Erie bondholders, was held yesterday in a private room of an office at No. 8 Wall street. The occupant of the office is J. W. Gedney. Col. N. B. Lord presided, and the following alleged summary of Receiver Jewett's statements to Judge Spencer for June, July, and August was read:

Dr.		Cr.
Cash on hand...	$143,000	Paid old debts..	$4,362,000
Collected for previous services	1,002,000	Expense account...	2,470,000
Receipts.......	5,210,000	Cash on hand...	373,000
Borrowed.......	850,000	Total.......	$7,205,000
Total.......	$7,205,000

S. H. Dunan, ex-Auditor of the Erie Railway, entered into a long analysis of this statement, and, after several speeches and a lengthened discussion, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That a foreclosure suit be immediately begun by the fifth mortgage bondholders present at this meeting.

Resolved, That a foreclosure suit be commenced by the holders of the sterling bonds, or their representatives, present at this meeting, whose bonds have now matured and have not been paid.

Resolved, That a suit be begun by the bondholders under any of the other mortgages upon which default has been made, and who are present at this meeting.

Resolved, That an assessment be levied on the bondholders of $1 per bond with which to prosecute these suits in the courts, and that said assessment be paid to the Treasurer chosen at this meeting, to be drawn upon as the committee may direct.

Resolved, That the most vigorous measures be taken to place the road and its business in the hands of its equitable owners, the bondholders.

Resolved, That the committee authorize J. Worden Gedney, their attorney, to retain Charles O'Conor and Dexter A. Hawkins, and such other eminent counsel as he and the committee may deem necessary, to push these suits to a conclusion with all possible dispatch.

Messrs. B. H. Cheever, S. P. Dinsmore, T. N. Mather, and the Chairman and Secretary were appointed a committee to carry out the objects of the meeting. The committee will meet again this morning.

It is claimed that between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 of the first and second consolidated, the sterling, and the fifth mortgage bonds were represented at the meeting. The entire affair, however, is looked upon by business men as an effort to "bear" the stock. Of those whose names are mentioned as having been present only one or two are known.

A HORSE-DEALER FATALLY SHOT.

FOUND IN A STABLE WITH A PISTOL BALL IN HIS BRAIN—A VAGUE STORY ABOUT A COUNTRYMAN AND A BLACK HORSE.

One of the most singular cases which have come under the notice of the Police authorities during the past year occurred in Sixth street, near the Bowery, yesterday. Shortly after 2:30 o'clock information reached the Seventeenth Precinct that a man had been shot and fatally wounded in a stable at the rear of No. 214 Sixth street. Capt. McCullagh, accompanied by Detective Kennedy, at once proceeded to the place, and found that the wounded man, Thomas Corrigan, had been removed to the residence of his sister-in-law, No. 18 Sixth street. Corrigan is a man thirty-two years old, of powerful build, and rough appearance. He resides at No. 224 North Sixth street, Williamsburg, and is a horse-dealer, renting one of the old Morgan O'Brien stables, in the rear of No. 212 Sixth street. Capt. McCullagh found that Corrigan had been shot in the head, the ball entering immediately behind the right ear, the weapon having been evidently held close to the skull, as the hair and skin around the wound were burned and blackened. Corrigan was very much intoxicated, and in reply to the questions of the Captain said, at first, that nobody had shot him, and that he did not know how he had been shot. At this point John Corrigan, aged fourteen, a nephew of the wounded man, residing at No. 62 Broome street, informed the Captain that the pistol was lying in the stable. On proceeding to the stable, the Captain found a seven-chambered revolver lying on the floor of an empty stall. On a wooden box, about six feet from where the pistol was found, was a copy of the New-York Weekly covered with blood. It would seem from this that after being shot Corrigan allowed the blood to drip from his wound. The boy John Corrigan informed Capt. McCullagh that when he left the stable for his aunt's house Corrigan was standing in the stall where the pistol was found. On his return, ten minutes after, he was leaning against the stable wall, his face covered with blood. On going back to the house, Capt. McCullagh further questioned Corrigan, and the latter at length said that a week ago he had sold a black mare to a man from the country, and that the man had come back and wanted his money returned. They quarreled, and he was getting the best of the man when the latter drew a revolver and shot him. He could not give the name of this man, and on the arrival of Coroner Kessler, who had been called to take his ante-mortem statement, he repeated the story as to his quarreling with a countryman, but could not give the name of his assailant. His ante-mortem statement is valueless, as, in addition to his being drunk, he loudly declared that he was going to live and get square. He was taken to Bellevue Hospital, where he will probably die this morning. Corrigan, in 1869, was Messenger to the Board of Aldermen in this City. It is generally supposed that he committed suicide while crazed by liquor, as the persons living in the alley leading to the stable saw no one leave the stable after the shot was fired. Besides this, however, the lobe of Corrigan's right ear is perfect, which could hardly be the case if he had been shot by any person other than himself. Capt. McCullagh and a number of Central Office detectives are searching for the countryman to whom Corrigan alleges he sold the horse.

THE BANKERS' CENTENNIAL FUND.

MEETING OF THE NEW-YORK BANKERS—REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE—A DEPARTMENT UNDER MANAGEMENT OF THE BANKS AND BANKERS RECOMMENDED.

At a meeting of the members of the Bankers' Centennial Fund Association, held at the Clearing-house yesterday forenoon, the report of the committee appointed by virtue of a resolution adopted at a previous meeting, held on July 1, was received. Following are the resolution and report:

Resolved, That, in order to combine the efforts of bank officers in securing the largest subscriptions to the stock of the Centennial Board of Finance, a committee of five be appointed by the Chairman, whose duty it shall be to distribute among the banks, savings institutions, trust companies, and other associations, printed subscription lists, with copies of the report of this committee, and such other information upon the subject of the International Exhibition as they may obtain, and to gather the returns of such subscriptions by such method of organization as shall seem to them most effectual for the object.

The committee appointed under the above resolution respectfully report that they have presented to the banks of New-York City the subject matter thereof in circular form, and that some of them have responded by subscriptions as banks to the objects and purposes therein set forth.

This committee deem it right and proper that a department under the management of the banks and bankers of the United States should form a part of the Centennial Exhibition for the purpose of securing a proper display of the currency of our country from its earliest settlement down to the present time, and also a display of coins of all nations as contemplated under the organization. They regard such a department as essential to the completeness of the Centennial Exhibition, and advantageous to the banking interest, as it will afford an opportunity to gentlemen from all parts of the country engaged in this pursuit to meet together for the purpose of social intercourse, and extending the proper courtesy to all those of the same calling who may attend the International Exhibition of 1876 from other countries.

The manufacturing interests of our nation will, of necessity, be heavily taxed in making the exhibition of specimens of their various productions. It is, therefore, but proper that the banking interest should contribute to the erection of the necessary buildings, as it is to the interest of banks, especially at the present time, to give life and action to the industrial interest of the country, and to have every interest fully and ably represented on that important occasion. We again appeal to the banks of New-York, who are in communication with the banks throughout the United States, to do their duty, and to do it promptly, as the money is necessary to complete the buildings before Winter.

As to the probabilities of returns from the investment, we beg leave to submit the following correspondence, which includes an estimate that the committee believe to be a careful one.

CONTINENTAL HOTEL, PHILADELPHIA, July 2, 1875.
John Welsh, Esq., President Centennial Board of Finance, No. 904 Walnut street:

DEAR SIR: If not inconsistent with your official position, or, in your judgment, detrimental to the great interest confided to your care, I would be pleased to have your answer to the following interrogatories:

First—What is your estimate of the total cost of the buildings for the International Exhibition?

Second—What is the estimate of the expenses of the Exhibition from its opening to its close?

Third—The amounts appropriated for the Exhibition and the buildings by the City of Philadelphia, and State of Pennsylvania, and of any other appropriations for which stock will not be issued.

Fourth—What may be reasonably expected to be distributed to subscribers to the stock, at the close of the Exhibition, derivable from sale of the Exhibition buildings and all sources of revenue?

Very respectfully yours, J. E. PEYTON.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2, 1875,
No. 904 WALNUT STREET.
International Exhibition 1876, Centennial Board of Finance:

DEAR SIR: I have the pleasure to acknowledge your note of to-day, and without hesitation proceed to answer your several interrogations, under the reserve, however, that while my replies are in accordance with my best judgment, they are of necessity but approximations of results which are dependent on circumstances subject to changes by possible events, either favorably or unfavorably. Your first and second inquiries I embrace in one, and give you the total cost of all the buildings, improvements of the grounds and expenses incident to the organization and conduct of the United States Centennial Commission, Centennial Board of Finance, and to the Exhibition until its close as $8,500,000.

The appropriation by Pennsylvania of $1,000,000, and of Philadelphia of $1,500,000, together with the proceeds of gifts, profits on sales of medals, &c., which will yield $500,000 in all, $3,000,000 will not be included in the stock basis, therefore the stock basis cannot exceed $5,500,000, and probably not $5,000,000.

The number of admissions cannot be reasonably estimated at less than 10,000,000, which at fifty cents each will yield $5,000,000, to which must be added the amount to be received from concessions, and the sale of materials after the Exhibition closes, say $500,000, together making $5,500,000, or the whole stock capital.

The indications justify the opinion that visitors from abroad and from our own country will be limited only by the means of transportation. The patriotic sentiment should alone influence subscribers, but the probable result, as stated above, may not be inappropriately presented as an additional consideration.

Very respectfully, JOHN WELSH,
President of the Centennial Board of Finance.
To Col. J. E. PEYTON, Continental Hotel, Philadelphia.

You are respectfully referred to the following extracts from section 2 and section 9 of the act of Congress creating the Centennial Board of Finance, approved June 1, 1872:

"And it shall be lawful for any municipal or other corporate body, existing by or under the laws of the United States, to subscribe and pay for shares of said capital stock, and all holders of said stock shall become associates in said corporation, and shall be entitled to one vote on each share." "And provided further, That no member of said Centennial Board of Finance assumes any personal liability for any debt or obligation which may be created or incurred by the corporation authorized by this act."

We earnestly invite your aid and co-operation to make the Centennial celebration of our national independence a success worthy the event, the character, and honor of the American people. The past by its memories, the present by its achievements, and the future by its hopes, all alike invite your co-operation.

I fully concur with Mr. Welsh, President of the Board of Finance, in the statements he has made in his letter, and particularly as to the returns from the investment. J. E. PEYTON,
Agent, Banks' and Bankers' Association on Coins and Currency.

The subscriptions to the Centennial stock, the shares of which are $10 each, by the banks of Philadelphia, are as follows: The Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank has taken 500 shares; the Fidelity Insurance and Trust Company, 500; the Girard National Bank, 300; D. B. Cummins, President, 100; Mr. Snaffer, Cashier, 100; the Mechanics' National Bank, 250; the Manufacturers' National Bank, 200; the National Bank of the Republic, 250; the National Bank of Northern Liberties, 200; the Philadelphia National Bank, 500; the Pennsylvania Life and Trust Company, 500; the People's Bank, 250; the Penn National Bank, 100; the Kensington National Bank, 50; the National Bank of Pottstown, Penn., 50; the National Security Company of Philadelphia, 50; the Sixth National Bank of Philadelphia, 50; the Twenty-second Ward National Bank, 50; the Union National Bank, 120; the Union Banking Company, 50; the Western National Bank, 200; the National Bank of Commerce, 75; the City National Bank, Philadelphia, 80; the Commonwealth National Bank, 60; the Corn Exchange Bank, 500; the Central National Bank, 250; the Commercial Bank, 250; the Consolidation National Bank, 60; the Citizens' National Bank, 50; the Eighth National Bank, 50; the First National Bank, 300; the National Bank of Germantown, 40; the Penn Life and Annuity Trust Company, 500; the Southwark National Bank, 50; the Seventh National Bank, 50; the Tradesmen's National Bank, 500.

A TEXAN CITY'S BONDS.

The bonds of the City of Houston, Texas, bear an annual interest of ten per cent. In July last the City defaulted on her interest, and yesterday, in accordance with a call issued by J. C. Chew, the City of Houston's agent in this City, a meeting, at which $200,000 worth of bonds were represented, was held at No. 29 Broadway, to consider what had best be done. Mr. Augustus Frank, of Warsaw, N. Y., presided. The meeting was called to order at 1 o'clock, and lasted until 5:30 P. M. The discussion was at times very heated. Mr. Chew drew a dismal picture of the condition of Houston. Former administrations, he said, had misappropriated its funds, and reduced it to a state of absolute bankruptcy. Taxation had long ago been raised to the limit fixed by law, two per cent., and even at this rate it has been found impossible to meet the city's obligations. The streets are out of repair and dirty, and there is no money to carry on any of the many needed improvements. Mr. Chew suggested that the bondholders refund their bonds, and accept in lieu of them other bonds bearing interest at six per cent. per annum. This the city could pay, but ten per cent. was entirely out of the question. Mr. Chew's suggestion was vehemently opposed by the bondholders. Some claimed that Houston is in an entirely prosperous condition, and confidence in its ability to pay, at least ultimately, was generally expressed. Those present announced their willingness to fund their past due coupons, and those falling due in the near future, if need be, and wait a year or two for their money, but they unanimously refused to accept less interest than ten per cent. No conclusion was reached, but another meeting is to be held, at which a further discussion will take place, and an attempt be made to come to some arrangement.

PREPARING FOR THE ELECTION.

Mr. D. B. Hasbrouck, Chief of the Bureau of Elections, was busily engaged yesterday in swearing in the Republican Inspectors of Election who have been appointed by the Board of Police. The Inspectors on behalf of the Democrats have not yet been appointed, but the lists from Tammany Hall have received the preliminary publication in the City Record. The registration of qualified voters will be commenced on Tuesday, Oct. 5, and will be continued on the 13th, 22d, and 23d of that month.

THE COMMITTEE ON CRIME.

THE INVESTIGATION OF THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S OFFICE CONTINUED.

The Assembly Committee intrusted with the duty of inquiring into the causes of crime and the manner of its punishment in this City met again yesterday in the Chamber of the Board of Aldermen, Mr. Thomas Cooper Campbell presiding. The other members present were Messrs. Dessar, McGowan, Hess, and Husted. The proceedings were mainly an effort to discover some inefficiency in the administration of the District Attorney's office, and a number of witnesses were examined with that intention but with very little success. The first witness called was Mrs. Rachel Roth, the daughter of Levi Ahrens, who was at one time in custody on a charge of receiving stolen goods. She simply stated that while in the Tombs her father was in a delicate state of health, and it was not until after his release from custody she ascertained that a rumor of his death prevailed, and on that account the parties who prosecuted him did not appear when the case was called up for trial.

John H. Brown testified that he was a detective in the employ of the Erie Railway and resided in Jersey City; on July 25 he was sent for by Thomas J. Brown, Superintendent of the Pavonia Ferry, who informed him that larcenies were committed nightly in the premises, and he suspected a man named John I. Clarke an employe; a pistol had been stolen from baggage belonging to a Mr. Franklin which was down in the baggage-room, and he traced the matter to Clarke; he accordingly went to the Sixteenth Precinct in which he resided, and obtained an officer to aid him in procuring the arrest of Clarke; they went to his house and arrested him on the charge of stealing the pistol; the witness proposed to search the house but the prisoner strongly objected, and they then took him into custody; the following day he obtained a search warrant from Judge Wandell, at Jefferson Market Police Court, and went to search the premises of the prisoner; the house was fitted up very poorly, but he found in it a quantity of farmer's satin and a variety of other articles which Mr. Franklin identified as his property; Clarke was committed for trial by the Grand Jury, but he never heard anything of the case; he went to the District Attorney's office to obtain information concerning it, but none was given him; he had since understood that the man pleaded guilty to a minor offense and was sent to prison.

Albert Hill, an attaché of the Erie Railway, detailed the facts connected with the discovery of the thefts of Clarke and the measures adopted for his arrest. His testimony was supplemented by that of Telos E. Franklin, a conductor on the New-Haven Railroad, to whom belonged the property stolen by Clarke, and who aided in the arrest of the prisoner.

John H. Brown was recalled, and stated that he had been for seven years an officer in the Court of General Sessions. He understood always that if a prisoner had money he need not be handcuffed going through the streets; that he could get the best cells in the prison, and that generally he had a better chance of being released or sentenced to a short term of imprisonment than would otherwise be the case. It was also well known that a few favorite lawyers were engaged to defend most of the prisoners, and he stated as a circumstance that occurred in his experience that a noted pickpocket named Tommy Stack, who was convicted and sentenced to State Prison for five years, was released half an hour afterward.

Charles Heidelberg, an ex-detective, stated, as was already testified to, that it was customary for detectives to be sent to Long Branch and Saratoga during the races, and have their expenses paid by the persons who sent for them, generally John Chamberlain, or somebody connected like him with the race meetings.

Thorndyke Saunders testified that he was a lawyer in this City, and on one occasion caused the arrest and indictment of Henry D. Johnson, Jr., for stealing a pair of diamond earrings from a lady named Mrs. Frances White, in February, 1874. Johnson was a lodger in the house of Mrs. White, No. 92 Lexington avenue, and on the death of that lady Johnson made up an inventory of her personal effects, and in accounting for the absence of the diamonds said that Mrs. White sold them in Wall street and used the money to speculate with. The diamonds were subsequently found in the possession of Johnson by a detective, and he was placed in custody. The witness called a number of times at the District Attorney's office to forward the trial, and finally found that the prisoner had been discharged on his own recognizances. He still persisted in prosecuting the case, and obtained repeated promises at the District Attorney's office that it would be tried. At length an intimation was given him by the detective that Johnson was willing to surrender the stolen property if let alone, and upon communicating that fact to Assistant District Attorney Rollins the latter advised him to settle it. Other witnesses gave unimportant testimony touching the case of Johnson.

Arthur W. Parsons, of the firm of W. H. Parsons & Brother, Worth street, gave evidence respecting the arrest and indictment of Lewis H. Claussman. Claussman was a bookkeeper in the employ of the firm for a period of seven years, and at the expiration of that time a deficit of over $25,000 in his books was discovered, and he ran away to Canada. On his return he was arrested and indicted. While in the Tombs, with a view to ascertaining the manner in which the robbery was committed without going over accounts representing several millions of dollars, the witness applied to Mr. Rollins for permission to visit him. That application was refused, and Mr. Rollins stated that the power of the District Attorney's Office was not to be used to settle such offenses. The defalcation was detected on Dec. 8, 1874, and on Feb. 9 following he was suddenly informed by messenger that if he did not appear at the Recorder's Court within half an hour Claussman would be discharged. He went to the court as quickly as he could, found that the prisoner had been discharged an hour previous, and upon expressing his surprise at the strangeness of the proceeding, Recorder Hackett said that he had kept the court open for the prosecutor for nearly two hours, and upon his non-appearance the prisoner was released. The Recorder added that Claussman was then on his way to Montreal, but could be brought back on an indictment for forgery.

The committee then adjourned to next Friday at 11 o'clock.

THE BERGEN POINT MURDER.

Further developments in the case of the man John Murray, who was found lying by the roadside at the corner of Orient and Evergreen streets, Bergen Point, insensible and bleeding from a wound in the breast, reveal the fact that he was probably murdered. It appears that he and Thomas Connolly and John McLaughlin were employed on the masonry work of the new school-house in Baynone, and that during the day and evening they were in the habit of frequenting Thomas Fallon's saloon, on Orient street. About two weeks ago they were playing cards in the evening, and Murray lost the games. Having no money he asked the proprietor to trust him, and the latter agreed to do so on the agreement of Connolly to become security for the payment of the bill. Murray did not pay the money, and on Saturday night Connolly, accompanied by McLaughlin, went to Murray's boarding-house to ascertain the reason why. They had something to drink together, and then Connolly invited Murray to go outside. The latter accepted the invitation, and when they reached the street Connolly asked him if he intended to pay the bill. Murray answered that he did not, and a quarrel ensued, but they were prevented from coming to blows by the interference of McLaughlin. McLaughlin left shortly afterward, or rather he says he did, and then the quarrel between Connolly and Murray was resumed. They struck each other, and Connolly drew a knife, with which he stabbed Murray in the breast, inflicting a deep gash. Murray fell, and a couple of hours later he was found by some gentlemen lying by the roadside, unconscious and bleeding profusely. A stretcher was procured, on which he was placed and taken to the station-house. He was subsequently removed thence to St. Francis Hospital, in Jersey City, where he died on Sunday night. Connolly was arrested and committed to the County Jail to await trial. McLaughlin and a man named Higgins were arrested as accessories, but they were subsequently admitted to bail to appear as witnesses. Connolly has a wife and one child, and Murray was unmarried.

THE CASE OF CAPT. VAN DUSEN.

The trial of Capt. William A. Van Dusen, of the Fifteenth Precinct, charged with having failed to report No. 135 Eighth street as a gaming-house, was resumed before Commissioners Matsell and Voorhis yesterday. The defendant produced Sergt. Myron Allen and a number of patrolmen who from time to time, since last May, had been on post in Eighth street, and these witnesses all testified that in accordance with instructions from the Captain they had paid particular attention to the house indicated, but had never seen anything to indicate that gambling was going on there, and they consequently made no report in relation to the place to the Captain. It appeared to them to be no different from other dwelling-houses in the vicinity, and the only persons seen about the place were Murray and his family. The case was then closed and referred to the board for decision.

A NEW-YORK PHYSICIAN KILLED IN HOBOKEN.

At 5 o'clock last evening, as the train for Montclair was leaving the depot at Hoboken, an old gray-headed gentleman ran along the platform, and attempted to spring on to one of the rear cars. He missed his grip on the rail and his footing as well, and fell beneath the wheels, which, passing over his body, mangled him terribly. He was placed on the platform, and breathed for about ten minutes afterward. On an examination of his body after its removal to the Morgue on Washington street, Hoboken, a case of physician's instruments were found in his pocket, and several bills made out in the name and favor of Dr. Cyrus Sweet, of No. 42 Clinton place, New-York. There is no doubt that that is the name of the unfortunate man, and his friends were informed by telegraph of his untimely death.

THE BROKEN FIRE LADDER.

INQUEST IN THE CASE BEGUN—NO NEW PARTICULARS GAINED—TESTIMONY OF ONE OF THE INJURED FIREMEN.

Coroner Croker yesterday began an inquest in the case of Chief of Battalion William H. Nash and firemen Maus and Hughes, who were killed by the breaking of the Scott-Uda aerial ladder on Tuesday last at the junction of East Broadway and Canal street. Beyond the facts already published in THE TIMES, no new particulars were gained by the inquiry. Capt. McElwaine, of the Seventh Precinct, testified that he was present on the ground with a detachment of Police; the firemen put the ladder together and raised it; seeing that there were no guy ropes, the witness had the square cleared; several men mounted the truck and began to ascend, Nash leading; the witness heard a snapping and immediately after the ladder broke at the second section; Nash, Maus, and Hughes fell on the street pavement; had them conveyed to the station, and summoned medical assistance; apprehended danger from seeing the ladder put in use, though it was the first experiment of the kind witnessed by him; the firemen seemed to be under the direction of Chief Nash; the ladder was at an angle of seventy or eighty degrees; the top of the ladder seemed to be about one hundred feet from the ground. Sergt. Charles Snyder, of the Seventh Precinct, testified that on the ladder bending, Chief Engineer Bates, who was standing near the truck, ordered the men to come down; before any could do so, it broke; the men had not been more than a minute or a minute and a half on the ladder when the break took place. Jeremiah Moreland, an officer of the Seventh Precinct, gave similar testimony. Charles Whitling, of No. 80 Division street, testified that on the ladder being raised to an angle of fifty degrees the man at the top called out for the ladder to be raised higher, and it was raised to an angle of eighty degrees when it broke. Thomas A. Beebe, a fireman attached to Chemical Engine No. 6 testified that he was ordered on drill with the ladder, it was an exhibition drill, not practice. After the eight sections of the ladder, 96 feet, had been connected and the ladder raised to an angle of fifty degrees, the men were ordered to ascend, Chief Nash leading the ascent. The orders were for each man to take a section, Nash taking the upper section. Nash called down to have the ladder raised higher. The ladder was raised some twenty degrees, and more men began to ascend, when the ladder quivered and came down all in a heap, the witness falling forty feet. The witness then considered the ladder perfectly safe, and has since changed his mind; could not account for the breaking of the ladder, the wood seemed to be good and it was well made. At present no amount of money would induce him to ascend a similar ladder. The inquest was then adjourned to this morning at 11 o'clock.

TRAGEDY IN NEW-JERSEY.

A NEW-BRUNSWICK ORGANIST ATTEMPTS TO KILL HIS WIFE AND THEN COMMITS SUICIDE—HORRIBLE SCENE IN A BED CHAMBER.

The residents of the City of New-Brunswick were thrown into a state of great excitement yesterday by the report that a terrible tragedy had been enacted in the eastern part of the city, known as Eastern New-Brunswick. It was soon ascertained that a man had shot his wife and then committed suicide. James Garland, the suicide, was a well-known professor of music and kept a music store at No. 24 Albany street. He was a man of very violent temper, and for some time past had been treating his wife and family in a most brutal manner. His wife had him arrested and bound over to keep the peace several times, but that failed to effect the desired result. His conduct at length became so unbearable that she was compelled to sue for a bill of separation, and obtained it. She and her children then decided to move to New-Brunswick proper and open a music store in Church street. Yesterday morning the family sat down to breakfast together, and it was understood to be the last time. During the meal Garland talked in a very melancholy strain. About 7:30 he left the house and went to New-Brunswick, his wife and daughters meanwhile busying themselves in packing up their trunks preparatory to removal. At 10 o'clock he returned home, but remained in the house a few minutes only. At 12 o'clock he returned again, and made a circuit of the house three times, looking into the windows and peering cautiously through the blinds as if searching for some one. At this time his wife and one of her daughters were in the kitchen, and Jennie, the youngest daughter, was in an upper room. She happened to look out of the window, and, seeing her father act so suspiciously, became alarmed and ran down stairs to warn her mother. Before she could reach the kitchen, however, her father opened the door, and drawing a revolver, pointed it at his wife's head and fired three shots in rapid succession. Mrs. Garland was just in the act of rising from a stooping posture at the moment, and the first shot grazed her neck near the jugular vein, plowing a deep furrow through the skin. On hearing the shot she turned around, and screamed, when a bullet entered her mouth and passed out through the back of her cheek, near the ear, breaking her jaw-bone, and knocking out several teeth. The third shot struck her on the top of the head, and tore through the scalp, but did not penetrate the skull. Mrs. Garland then made a blow at her husband with a piece of furniture she had in her hand, and then rushed past him into the yard, where she fell senseless and bleeding. Garland then went up stairs to his son's room, on the second floor, and locked himself in. Sitting down on the edge of the bed, he placed the muzzle of the revolver to his head and fired three shots. He then took out a penknife and severed two of the main arteries in his arm, and the jugular vein and windpipe, breaking two blades of the knife in the effort. Not content with this, he picked up a hammer and with all his remaining strength on the head until his skull was completely crushed in. When the door was broken open Garland presented a most shocking and sickening appearance. He was covered with blood and was still alive, and breathing through the the severed windpipe. Two physicians were promptly summoned, but at a glance they knew they could do nothing to save his life, and he died in a very short time. In the meantime his victim had been picked up and carried into the house, where, upon examination being made, it was found that no vital point had been touched. The physicians entertain some hopes of saving her life. The Coroner was soon on the ground, and empaneled a jury for the purpose of holding an inquest. The suicide was forty-seven years old and a native of Manchester, England. He came to this country twenty-five years ago, and went to work as a farm hand in Freehold, Monmouth. There he met his wife, who at the time of his marriage was the widow of a music professor named Kinzev. Garland was an accomplished musician, and his talents gained him the appointment of organists in the Presbyterian Church. He subsequently resigned that position to accept a similar one in the Dutch Reformed Church. He had five children, a son and four daughters, the eldest being Ralph, a young man of eighteen. It is considered a fortunate circumstance for the young man that he was not at home at the time of the tragedy, as his father would probably have killed him, because he had always sided with his mother. Garland's business had become very remunerative, and he had acquired a comfortable competency. He moved in very good society, and was generally respected by those who were not aware of his violent and ungovernable temper.

THE BROOKLYN BRIDGE.

The Trustees of the East River Bridge Company met yesterday in their offices in Water street, near the Brooklyn tower of the bridge. There was a full attendance, and Mr. Henry C. Murphy occupied the chair. After the minutes of the last meeting had been read and some routine business transacted, the salary of Engineer Farrington was raised to $3,000 a year, being an increase of $50 per month. The Executive Committee were authorized to advertise for proposals for stone to finish the anchorage on the New-York side. Bills amounting to $53,853 were ordered to be paid. An amendment to the by-laws was passed authorizing the Finance Committee to pay all bills. The work was reported by the President to be going on as rapidly as possible. The New-York tower was delayed, he said, by the fact that boat-loads of stone were detained by fogs in the Sound. In reference to the call on New-York for $500,000, the President informed the Trustees that the Corporation Counsel of that City had advised the passage of an appropriation of that sum.

"HARRY" GENET AND "TOM" FIELDS.

It having been stated that information had been sent to District Attorney Phelps that Harry Genet and Thomas Fields, the fugitive Tammany thieves, were living in obscurity in Montreal, Canada, in a manner which rendered their arrest and extradition almost a matter of impossibility, the District Attorney was yesterday interrogated on the subject. He had, he said, received such information from a Deputy Sheriff in Saratoga, who claimed to have received it from a resident of Saratoga, to whom the secret had been imparted by a companion of the fugitives while under the influence of liquor. The information, however, was very ambiguous, and he (Mr. Phelps) had written to the Deputy Sheriff, requesting him to obtain all the information possible and communicate with the District Attorney's office in this City, when it would be promptly acted upon.

THE MURDER NEAR TREMONT.

Three colored men, who passed through the village of West Farms, are now strongly suspected of having murdered the unknown peddler whose remains were found on Sunday in the woods near Tremont. At 9 o'clock on Friday morning the murdered man was seen sitting on a stoop in Bronxdale, and the three men passed and spoke to him. Shortly afterward he went on in the direction of West Farms. About 11 o'clock of the same day, a citizen who was driving along the road saw the three colored men coming from the woods near where the body was found. Late last night a general alarm was sent out from the Thirty-fourth Precinct, ordering the arrest of the colored men, one of whom is a mulatto.

Whereas, Costume for both sexes performs an important office in developing and conserving power, health, and harmony; and as the attire of all classes is imperfect and injurious, therefore Resolved, The first duty of reformers is to take this topic into their organizations and endeavor to reform all that is pernicious in the present costume.

Resolved, That the style of prevailing fashion is sapping the foundation of life and causing the degradation of man and woman kind.

Resolved, That the external pressure and burdensome weight of dress must be removed before mankind can unfold integrally.
